

South Africa Yearbook 2020/21

International Relations

International Relations

According to the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996, the President is ultimately responsible for the country's foreign policy and international relations. It is the President's prerogative to appoint heads of mission, receive foreign heads of mission, conduct state-to-state relations, and negotiate and sign all international agreements.

International agreements that are not of a technical, administrative or executive nature only bind the country after being approved by Parliament. Parliament also approves the country's ratification of/or accession to multilateral agreements. All international agreements must be tabled in Parliament for information purposes. The Minister of International Relations and Cooperation is entrusted with the formulation, promotion, execution and daily conduct of South Africa's foreign policy.

The Department of International Relations and Cooperation's (DIRCO) overall mandate is to work for the realisation of South Africa's foreign policy objectives. This is achieved by:

- coordinating and aligning South Africa's international relations abroad;
- monitoring developments in the international environment;
- communicating government's policy positions;
- developing and advising government on policy options to create mechanisms and avenues for achieving objectives;
- protecting South Africa's sovereignty and territorial integrity;
- promoting South African trade and tourism;
- contributing to the creation of an enabling international environment for South African businesses;
- sourcing developmental assistance; and
- assisting South African citizens abroad.

The DIRCO's strategic objectives are to:

- protect and promote South African national interests and values through bilateral and multilateral interactions;
- conduct and coordinate South Africa's international relations and promote its foreign policy objectives;
- monitor international developments and advise government on foreign policy and related domestic matters;
- contribute to the formulation of international law and enhance respect for its provisions;
- promote multilateralism to secure a rules-based international system;
- maintain a modern, effective department driven to pursue excellence; and

- provide a world-class and uniquely South African state protocol service.

The National Development Plan (NDP) is the overarching apex policy framework that guides the work of government. In the area of international relations, the NDP states that in order for South Africa to achieve its national goals of eradicating poverty, lowering inequality, creating jobs and making the transition to a resilient carbon economy, foreign relations must be driven by the country's domestic economic, political and social demands, as well as regional, continental and global obligations.

In pursuance of this injunction, the DIRCO has translated the NDP goals into a strategic programme that seeks to:

- sustain political, economic and social relations;
- strengthen political and economic integration and development of the Southern African Development Community (SADC);
- consolidate the African Agenda;
- strengthen and consolidate South-South relations;
- leverage relations with the North in the advancement of national and continental priorities and the agenda of the South; and
- advocate for the reform and strengthening of the global system of governance.

South Africa's international diplomatic footprint consists of diplomatic missions in 108 countries in which the country has representation, and through the accreditation of more than 160 countries and international organisations resident in South Africa.

South Africa's diplomatic and consular missions implement the country's foreign policy to enhance its international profile and serve as strategic mechanisms for the achievement of national interest.

In addition, training and policy analysis remain of strategic importance for the execution of the DIRCO's mandate. Chapter 7 of the NDP details a vision for facilitating South Africa's broad-based socio-economic development and fostering strong international ties. This articulation is supported by Priority 7 (a better Africa and world) of government's 2019 – 2024 Medium Term Strategic Framework.

Over the medium term, the DIRCO plans to give effect to these guiding policies by focusing on strengthening the African Agenda; active participation in the United Nations (UN); and developing and managing state-owned properties in foreign missions.

Strengthening the African Agenda and regional integration

Africa remains the focal point of South Africa's foreign policy. Accordingly, the DIRCO will continue to play an active role in the structures and processes of the African Union (AU) to advance peace, security and conflict prevention in the continent. In 2020, South Africa assumed the Chair of the AU with the clear purpose of making a difference on the continent by ensuring that linkages exist between development, good governance, peace and stability.

The COVID-19 pandemic forced South Africa, in its capacity as Chair, to take a different approach in ensuring that the threats and challenges posed by the disease are dealt with in a multifaceted way. This included establishing the COVID-19 Response Fund, which is aimed at raising additional funds for the African Centres for Disease Control and Prevention; and lobbying for a comprehensive and robust economic stimulus package for Africa to alleviate the economic impact of the pandemic. Related activities are carried out in the Africa subprogramme in the International Relations programme, spending in which is expected to increase at an average annual rate of 4.6%, from R952.3 million in 2020/21 to R1.1 billion in 2023/24.

South Africa continues to be one of the largest contributors to the AU's budget through its membership fees. To this end, over the medium term, the DIRCO intends to spend R779.7 million in the Membership Contribution subprogramme in the International Transfers programme towards AU membership fees.

The country's chairship of the AU also took place against a challenging backdrop characterised by, among others, continental geopolitical dynamics and contestation for influence in regional economic communities and in the AU itself; the growing external influence of major powers; the emergence of new influential role-players; the persistent occurrence of political and civil instability, and violent conflict; and a young continental population requiring economic opportunity.

However, there are also unprecedented positive developments taking place on the continent, most notably the launch of the African Continental Free Trade Agreement (AfCFTA). The start of trade of the AfCFTA will be a seminal moment in the continental integration project. The AfCFTA will make Africa the second-biggest common market in the world.

It will boost intra-Africa trade, reignite industrialisation and pave the way for the meaningful integration of Africa into global value chains and the global economy in general.

There is also broad unity of purpose among the members of the southern and eastern regional groupings as well as strategic cooperation with the western and northern regional groupings, which bodes well for gaining broad consensus on priority issues and initiatives.

South Africa's broad approach was centred on promoting Pan-African unity and integration. As the Chair, South Africa was determined to take the project of continental unity, integration and development further, guided by its foreign policy priorities and the continent's strategic political and development aspirations as espoused in Agenda 2063.

At the same time, South Africa also assumed the chairships of the African Peer Review Mechanism (APRM) and the Committee of African Heads of State and Government on Climate Change. The approved theme for South Africa's Chairship of the AU was; "Silencing the Guns: Creating Conducive Conditions for Africa's Development". The theme was presented and adopted by the Ministerial Committee on Agenda 2063 during the 33rd Assembly of the AU Heads of State and Government held in July 2019, in Niamey, Niger, as the AU theme of the year for 2020.

The choice of the theme was primarily based on the fact that South Africa's chairship coincided with the final year of the implementation of the AU Master Roadmap for Silencing the Guns by 2020. Thus, South Africa faced a momentous task to lead the process of reviewing the roadmap, pursuant to the fourth aspiration of Agenda 2063 for "a peaceful and secure Africa", which would be characterised by an entrenched culture of human rights, democracy, gender equality, inclusion, prosperity, peace, safety and security for all citizens, including mechanisms to promote and defend the continent's collective security and interests.

The roadmap's practical steps to silence the guns in Africa by year 2020 were meant to be realistic, practical and time-bound implementable steps to assist the AU to track progress in the realisation of the ideal of a continent free of violent conflict by the year 2020. The roadmap is divided into five key aspects – political, economic, social, environmental and legal. The strategic objective of the AU Master Roadmap for Silencing the Guns by 2020 is to promote the implementation of relevant AU decisions and policies.

South Africa intensified efforts to silencing of the guns by 2020, concomitantly with those aimed at the implementation of the AfCFTA. This is of strategic national importance to South Africa since government has put emphasis on the objective of expanding trade with the continent.

The theme underscored the nexus between development, good governance, peace, stability and good governance. In this regard, three priorities were proposed for South Africa:

Economic development

The socio-economic development of the continent, and the realisation of a prosperous Africa based on inclusive growth and sustainable development (Aspiration 1), remains a central objective of the AU, as espoused in Agenda 2063 and the first Ten-Year Implementation Plan, which may require a review of progress achieved. This will be solidified, in particular, by the operationalisation of the AfCFTA and the implementation of the Single African Air Transport Market.

Peace and security

South Africa's Chairship coincided with the end of the AU's aspiration of Silencing of the Guns by 2020, taking stock of the achievements and challenges was of key importance to intensify efforts towards resolving conflicts. In this regard, President Cyril Ramaphosa hosted the 14th Extraordinary Summit of Heads of State and Government to review the roadmap to silencing the guns and propose the way forward. The key decision and outcome of the 14th Extraordinary Summit on Silencing the Guns, also called the Johannesburg Declaration, was within the context of AU Agenda 2063, to extend the implementation of the roadmap for a period of 10 years, from 2021 to 2030, with the important addition of periodic reviews every two years.

In addition to extending the AU Master Roadmap for Silencing the Guns by 2020, the assembly also agreed to extend the annual Africa Amnesty Month (each September) for a period of 10 years (2020 – 2030), in order to accomplish the goal of collecting and disposing of arms illegally owned by civilians. All member states are urged to comply with the declaration and report progress on their national plans towards silencing guns.

Furthermore, under South Africa's leadership, the AU Doctrine on Peace Support Operations (PSO) was also adopted. The adoption of the AU Doctrine on PSO is considered a critical phase in concluding the full operationalisation of the African Standby Force. The doctrine will provide strategic guidance for the planning, conduct, management and conclusion of future AU PSOs.

As Chair of the AU, South Africa played a leading role in a number of crisis areas, including with regard to the Great Ethiopian Renaissance Dam dispute between Ethiopia and Libya. Significant progress has been made towards silencing guns, particularly in Libya and South Sudan. In Libya, an all-encompassing cease-fire agreement was signed in October 2020 and an interim Presidential Council was elected in February 2021, while in South Sudan, a successful National Dialogue Conference was held in November 2020 with outcomes which signalled positive progress, also in implementing the Revitalised Agreement on the Resolution of the Conflict in the Republic of South Sudan (R-ARCSS).

However, major challenges remain in other countries, including the Sahel and Central African Republic (CAR), and new challenges emerged in countries such as Mozambique and even Ethiopia.

Good Governance

As Chair of the APRM, South Africa was primarily responsible for the mechanism's good governance agenda. The delivery of good governance through democratic practice and economic growth reduces political tensions in countries with social divisions. In this context, good governance is conflict preventative in impact, and as such, will contribute to a peaceful and secure Africa.

These activities will be carried out in the International Transfers programme, which has a total budget of R2.4 billion over the Medium Term Expenditure Framework (MTEF) period. South Africa's membership contribution to the AU is expected to decrease from R437.9 million in 2019/20 to R275.4 million in 2022/23. This is due to the country having contributed an additional R413.3 million in 2019/20 and 2020/21, due to funding shortfalls.

The decrease in contributions in 2021/22 and 2022/23 is expected to lead to a decrease in spending in the International Transfers programme, from R855.6 million in 2019/20 to R756.6 million in 2022/23.

Active participation in the UN

With its near-universal membership and vast agenda, the UN remains the most important multilateral institution and global governance centre. As such, engagements with the UN, and active participation in its processes, are of vital importance to South Africa and the advancement of the country's foreign policy priorities.

Over the medium term, South Africa will continue to honour its membership fee obligation to the UN, which is expected to increase at an average annual rate of 1.4%, from R190.7 million in 2020/21 to R199.1 million in 2023/24.

Developing and managing infrastructure projects and properties

Over the medium term, the DIRCO will continue to manage its international property portfolio, which comprises 127 state-owned properties and more than 1 000 rented properties. To reduce its rental portfolio and the associated operational costs, the department will focus on developing state-owned vacant land and the renovation and maintenance of the portfolio to extend its lifespan.

Property renovations, repairs and maintenance will continue to be informed by annual property condition assessments. The DIRCO plans to commence with building four properties on state-owned land – two in Luanda, Angola; one in New Delhi, India; and one in Gaborone, Botswana.

The department also plans to conduct condition assessments of all state-owned properties over the medium term, beginning with those in Europe, followed by those in Africa, then those in the Americas and Asia. The outcome of these assessments will inform the need for accelerated maintenance and repairs to each property.

State-owned properties in Mbabane, Eswatini; the Hague, Netherlands; Windhoek and Walvis Bay, Namibia; and Brasilia, Brazil will be renovated. Professional condition assessments of properties in London, United Kingdom (UK); Paris, France; Vienna, Austria; Rome, Italy; Brussels, Belgium; Madrid, Spain; and Copenhagen, Denmark will be undertaken to inform decisions on future holding and use. The Administration programme is allocated R892 million over the medium term to carry out these activities.

Legislation

The DIRCO derives its mandate from the following legislation:

- the Foreign States Immunities Act, 1981 (Act 87 of 1981), which regulates the extent of the immunity of foreign states from the jurisdiction of the South African courts and provides for matters connected therewith;

- the Diplomatic Immunities and Privileges Act, 2001 (Act 37 of 2001), which provides for the immunities and privileges of diplomatic missions and consular posts and their members, Heads of State, special envoys and certain representatives of the UN and its specialised agencies, and other international organisations and certain people;
- the African Renaissance and International Cooperation Fund (ARF) Act, 2001 (Act 51 of 2001), which establishes cooperation between South Africa and other countries, in particular African countries, through the promotion of democracy, good governance, the prevention and resolution of conflict, socio-economic development and integration, humanitarian assistance and human resource development; and
- the International agreements (multilateral and bilateral): International agreements concluded by South Africa in terms of sections 231 (2) and 231 (3) of the Constitution.

Budget

For the 2020/21 financial year, the DIRCO was initially allocated R 6.8 billion. The budget was reduced to R6.3 billion. Expenditure is expected to increase at an average annual rate of 1.5%, from R6.3 billion in 2020/21 to R6.6 billion in 2023/24.

As the department largely relies on its personnel to perform its functions, compensation of employees is its main cost driver, accounting for an estimated 43.8% (R8.5 billion) of expenditure over the medium term. However, spending on compensation of employees is set to decrease at an average annual rate of 0.5%, from R2.9 billion in 2020/21 to R2.8 billion in 2023/24, to remain within government's expenditure ceiling for this item.

Entity

African Renaissance and International Cooperation Fund

The fund enhances cooperation between South Africa and other countries, particularly those in Africa, through the promotion of democracy and good governance, the prevention and resolution of conflict, socio-economic development and integration, the provision of humanitarian assistance, and the development of human resources.

Over the MTEF period, the fund will support projects that enhance African trade, economic development and integration.

This will be achieved by ensuring that agreements such as the AfCFTA are entered into. The fund will continue to foster partnerships with other development agencies that share common values for development.

Expenditure is set to increase at an average annual rate of 0.3%, from R50.8 million in 2020/21 to R51.2 million in 2023/24. Transfers and subsidies account for 100% (R152.4 million) of total expenditure. The fund is set to derive 96.3% (R148.1 million) of its total revenue over the medium term through transfers from the DIRCO, increasing at an average annual rate of 1.4%, from R47.8 million in 2020/21 to R49.9 million in 2023/24. The remainder is set to be generated through interest.

May is Africa Month. Africa Day is commemorated on 25 May each year. The day is an opportunity to promote African unity, deepen regional integration and recommit Africa to a common destiny.

Africa Day and Africa Month help countries in the continent to better understand each other as Africans, both on the continent and in the diaspora. The 2021 commemorations were held at a time when COVID-19 continued as a threat to all nations on the continent.

Africa Day 2021 was held under theme; "Arts, Culture and Heritage: Levers for Building the Africa we Want".

Programmes

International Cooperation

The purpose of the programme is to participate in initiatives of international organisations and institutions in line with South Africa's national values and foreign policy objectives. The programme's objective, over the medium term, include:

- contributing to a reformed and strengthened multilateral system based on equal rules that will be responsive to the needs of developing countries and Africa, in particular, by participating in the global system of governance;
- strengthening the AU and its structures by providing ongoing financial support for the operations of the Pan-African Parliament in terms of the country's host agreement;
- improving governance and capacity in the SADC secretariat by implementing the secretariat's job evaluation plan and assisting with the recruitment process;
- contributing towards processes of the African Union Development Agency-New Partnership for Africa's Development (AUDA-NEPAD) for socio-economic development in Africa by participating in the APRM and submitting APRM country reports when required;
- strengthening bilateral, trilateral and multilateral interests and relations within the dialogue forum of the Brazil, Russia, India, China, South Africa (BRICS) group of countries through active participation in forum structures;
- strengthening political solidarity, economic cooperation and socio-cultural relations with Asian countries by participating in structures of the New Asian-African Strategic Partnership; and
- strengthening North-South economic and political relations and cooperation to advance the African Agenda through financing development initiatives and providing support for institutional and governance reforms.

Subprogrammes within the International Cooperation programme include:

- the Global System of Governance, which provides for multilateralism and an international order based on rules. This entails participating in and playing an active role in all forums of the UN system and its specialised agencies, and funding programmes that promote the principles of multilateral activity;
- the Continental Cooperation, which provides for the enhancement of the African Agenda and sustainable development;

- the South-South Cooperation, which provides for partnerships with countries of the South in advancing South Africa's development needs and the needs of the African Agenda; and creates political, economic and social convergence for the fight against poverty, underdevelopment and the marginalisation of the South; and
- the North-South Dialogue, which provides for South Africa's bilateral and multilateral engagements to consolidate and strengthen relations with organisations of the North to advance and support national priorities, the African Agenda and the developmental agenda of the South.

Public Diplomacy and Protocol Services

The purpose of the programme is to communicate South Africa's role and position in international relations to domestic and international arenas and provide state protocol services. It ensures a better understanding of South Africa's foreign policy by providing ongoing strategic public diplomacy direction and state protocol services nationally and internationally.

Its subprogrammes include:

- Public Diplomacy, which promotes a positive projection of South Africa's image; communicates foreign policy positions to domestic and foreign audiences; and markets and brands South Africa by using public diplomacy platforms, strategies, products and services; and
- Protocol Services, which facilitates incoming and outgoing high-level visits and ceremonial events; coordinates and regulates engagements with the local diplomatic community; provides protocol advice and support to the various spheres of government; facilitates the hosting of international conferences in South Africa; and manages the state protocol lounges and guesthouses.

International Transfers

The programme funds membership fees and transfers to international organisations. It promotes multilateral activities that enhance South Africa's economic and diplomatic relations within the continent and with the world by providing for:

- South Africa's annual membership fee contributions to international organisations such as the UN, the AU and the SADC; and
- annual transfers to recapitalise the ARF as a contribution to its operations.

Enhancing economic diplomacy

In anticipation of growth in the African and Asian regions, South Africa took a conscious decision to expand and strengthen its diplomatic missions in the two regions.

As South Africa consolidated its political relations on the continent by expanding its diplomatic footprint through 47 embassies, high commissions and consulates general, the country has also rapidly advanced its economic relations in Africa, through the expansion of its trade volumes, investment portfolio and economic relations across the length and breadth of the continent.

This has resulted in Africa becoming a prime destination of South African-originated goods and services, especially value-added goods, which assists in contributing to the R198-billion trade surplus, creating much needed jobs and opportunities in the manufacturing, retail, fast-moving consumer goods, financial services and transport/logistics sectors. It is also worth noting that the SADC accounts for approximately 80% of South Africa's total trade with the continent.

With regard to Asia and the Middle East, South Africa's trade and investment in these regions have grown considerably and continue to do so. In 1994, trade with Asia and the Middle East combined was approximately R45 billion and has increased to approximately R760 billion for Asia and R116 billion with the Middle East.

There is a direct correlation between the growth of South Africa's diplomatic missions and the phenomenal expansion of its trade and investment relations on both the African continent and in Asia and the Middle East. The same applies to the Americas and Europe.

As South Africa explores new markets, it continues to maintain close economic ties with the industrialised economies of the North, which provide, among others, preferential market access to some of South Africa's exports. Enhancing the economic and political dialogue is an important part of South Africa's economic diplomacy strategy as they remain a primary source of foreign direct investment (FDI) and official development assistance flows into South Africa.

The DIRCO also uses international summits such as the BRICS, Group of Twenty (G20), the SADC, the Indian Ocean Rim Association (IORA) as well as state visits and bilateral consultation mechanisms to promote the trade and investment case for South Africa.

Government created a significant footprint in Asian markets as part of efforts to return the country to pre-COVID-19 economic growth. In 2021, government intended to identify new opportunities and expand those that have benefit for South Africa.

In 2020, South Africa acceded to the Treaty of Amity and Cooperation (TAC) to take up significant trade and development opportunities available Asia. South Africa will also benefit from the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership of these countries. This partnership created the world's biggest trading bloc, estimated to account for about US$26 trillion or 30% of global gross domestic product (GDP), and 28% of global trade.

In order to intensify efforts to stimulate growth, government is working tirelessly to raise the country's global visibility by promoting South Africa as the best place to be, to do business, to visit, to work, to study and to live.

Government is also responding to new opportunities and harnessing the collective capabilities of DIRCO's resources both at home and abroad.

South Africa will leverage engagement with the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) to enhance mutually beneficial trade, investment and tourism ties, and to support skills development and training for South Africans. South Africa secured significant beef export opportunities to the Malaysian market as of November 2020.

Market access was also obtained for fruits to Thailand. Product protocols are being negotiated in the region and are at an advanced stage. These include table grapes to Vietnam and South Korea, avocados to India and Japan, and pears to China and India.

Many companies from the Asian region have made significant investment pledges during the President's investment summits and State Visits. Companies such as Toyota, Isuzu, Tata Motors, Mahindra and Motherson Sumi have expanded their investments in the country.

China has pledged to invest $14 billion, and Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates (UAE) $10 billion each. The DIRCO aims to build on these successes by ensuring growing global trade, which is one of the best ways to fight poverty, inequality and unemployment in South Africa and Africa as a whole.

Disarmament, non-proliferation and arms control

A primary goal of South Africa's policy on disarmament, non-proliferation and arms control includes reinforcing and promoting the country as a responsible producer, possessor and trader of defence-related products and advanced technologies. In this regard, the DIRCO continues to promote the benefits that disarmament, non-proliferation and arms control hold for international peace and security.

As a member of the Supplier's Regimes and of the Africa Group and the Non-Aligned Movement (NAM), the importance of non-proliferation is promoted, considering that export controls should not become the means whereby developing countries are denied access to advanced technologies required for their development.

In seeking solutions to intractable disarmament, non-proliferation and arms control challenges in the international arena, a bridge-building approach has been followed to seek realistic and achievable solutions. While dealing with challenging issues from a pragmatic perspective, due recognition has been given to the role that civil society can play in partnership with the governments of the world, especially in the context of seeking solutions to the divergent views that often characterise international negotiations. South Africa is a signatory of the Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons (TPNW) to the UN in New York. The country signed the treaty at a ceremony held on the margins of the 72nd Session of the United Nations General Assembly (UNGA).

The historic treaty was adopted by a vote of 122 states in favour at the UN in 2017 and was opened for signatures the same year. It seeks to establish an international norm, de-legitimising and stigmatising the possession of nuclear weapons. It aims to contribute towards achieving the objective set out in the very first resolution adopted by UNGA in 1946 to eliminate all weapons of mass destruction.

The treaty complements other international instruments by contributing towards fulfilling the nuclear disarmament obligations under the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT), the objectives of the Comprehensive Nuclear Test-Ban Treaty and the various nuclear-weapon-free-zone treaties, such as the Pelindaba Treaty that already banned nuclear weapons in Africa. The year 2020 marked a number of milestones, including the 75th anniversary of the UN, the 50th anniversary of the NPT and the 25th anniversary of its indefinite extension. It also marked 75 years since the first use of nuclear weapons.

South Africa views the NPT as the cornerstone of the nuclear disarmament and nuclear non-proliferation regime. The treaty represents a historical bargain between the nuclear-weapon states and non-nuclear-weapon states, in terms of which the former has undertaken to eliminate their nuclear weapons based on the reciprocal undertaking by the latter not to pursue the nuclear weapons option. While non-proliferation measures have been strengthened, similar concrete progress has not yet been realised in the area of nuclear disarmament.

South Africa believes that efforts to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons should be matched by a concurrent effort to eliminate all nuclear weapons, in a verifiable and irreversible manner.

The TPNW does not spell out all the details of such a process, but rather allows for further negotiations on these arrangements to be agreed upon when states possessing or hosting nuclear weapons are ready to accede to it. While the doors into this treaty have always been open, some chose to abdicate leadership and not participate in it.

On 22 January 2021, South Africa welcomed the entry into force of the UN TPNW. The day marked a turning point in humanity's endeavour to rid the world of nuclear weapons. It is the culmination of that very first UN General Assembly resolution in 1946, which sought to deal with the elimination of nuclear weapons and other weapons adaptable to mass destruction.

The TPNW is not the final word on nuclear weapons, but a critical step in the evolution of the regime that would be required to achieve and eventually maintain a world without nuclear weapons. South Africa is of the view that the TPNW represents one of the most important developments in the area of nuclear disarmament since 1945.

The TPNW not only complements the NPT but strengthens it, as the former represents the highest non-proliferation standard that any state can commit to.

It also provides an opportunity for states that are not located in nuclear weapon-free zones to join an instrument that expresses their total opposition to nuclear weapons. The denuclearisation of South Africa is symbiotically linked to the country's democratisation.

Global governance and continental agenda Recalibrating South Africa's foreign policy and services

South Africa's foreign policy is formulated and executed in a global environment that is constantly evolving. It, therefore, requires frequent recalibration through comprehensive reviews of various foreign policy levers, tools and instruments to remain relevant and in line with the department's mandate.

Ubuntu brand

Ubuntu magazine

The DIRCO's quarterly magazine, Ubuntu – South Africa's Public Diplomacy in Action, is aimed at:

- communicating with and educating stakeholders on South Africa's foreign policy positions, achievements, objectives and goal; and
- giving in-depth analysis and information on key departmental issues, ranging from current affairs, bilateral and multilateral milestones, upcoming key events, as well as international work done by other government departments, business and parastatals.

The high-quality glossy magazine spreads South Africa's foreign policy message quarterly around the world. Its footprint extends across the globe. The magazine is also available online on www.dirco.gov.za.

Ubuntu Radio

Ubuntu Radio is an online, 24-hour radio station aimed at enhancing communication on South Africa's foreign policy. The first of its kind on the African continent, it is accessible on www.ubunturadio.com and on the DStv Audio Bouquet Channel 888. The objective of Ubuntu Radio is to create a platform to exchange views and opinions by various stakeholders.

Ubuntu Awards

The 2020 Ubuntu Awards were held in Cape Town on 15 February under the theme; "Celebrating Excellence in Diplomacy – Working Together to Build a Better Africa and a Better World". The purpose of the awards is to recognise South African citizens for their distinguished service and contribution to promoting South Africa's national interests and values across the world.

The event takes place traditionally after the opening of Parliament and brings together captains of industry, civil-society leaders, members of Cabinet and other eminent persons in addition to ambassadors and high commissioners accredited to South Africa.

The Ubuntu Lifetime Achievement Award went to Dr Brigalia Bam, a prominent gender activist. Bam is the Chancellor of Walter Sisulu University, a former Chairperson of the Independent Electoral Commission and former General Secretary of the South African Council of Churches. She was recently awarded the prestigious Mahatma Gandhi International Award for Peace and Reconciliation.

Global governance

South Africa participates in a rules-based multilateral system to achieve global political and socio-economic stability and security.

Multilateralism, and by implication the commitment to a rules-based, just, and equitable international order, remains a focal point of South Africa's foreign policy. Consequently, South Africa will continue to engage the multilateral system, particularly the UN, through its agencies, funds, programmes and processes, to advance South Africa's foreign policy priorities.

These engagements consider that the multilateral system still does not fully reflect global political and economic realities, and is in need of reform. A key priority for South Africa is to regain lost momentum that would accelerate the reform of the United Nations Security Council (UNSC), as well as to advance the reform of the broader global governance architecture with a view to improving its representivity and focus its responsiveness to the needs of, and challenges faced by, developing states.

The current unpredictable global environment poses a number of risks to the UN and the global governance system, particularly as it relates to, among others, the dynamics within the UNSC on issues of peace and security (including the situation in the Middle East), promotion and protection of human rights, funding for multilateral processes and honouring commitments to enable national implementation of multilateral decisions, such as the 2030 Agenda and Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) as well as the Paris Agreement on Climate Change – which for the first time brings all nations into a common cause to undertake ambitious efforts to combat climate change and adapt to its effects, with enhanced support to assist developing countries to do so.

Ensuring sustainable development in the current global environment will require concerted engagement in the UN system and other multilateral structures, such as the G20, in promoting access to vaccines, post-COVID-19 economic recovery, debt sustainability and liquidity, economic growth and the improvement of social well-being and infrastructure through increased trade and investment as well as the fair and equitable movement of goods and services.

This will include addressing systemic issues to enhance the coherence and consistency of the international monetary, financial and trading systems in support of development. The follow-up and review to commitments made in the International

Financing for Development Conferences, including the Addis Ababa Action Agenda, seeks to mobilise much-needed resources for the implementation of the SDGs.

Ensuring sustainable development in the current global environment will require concerted engagement in the UN system and other multilateral structures such as the G20, on economic growth and the improvement of social well-being and infrastructure through increased trade and investment as well as the fair and equitable movement of goods and services.

Furthermore, in the wake of numerous terror attacks across the world, countering international terrorism remains a priority on the agenda of the UN, particularly with regard to the abuse of cyber platforms for propaganda, recruitment and planning of attacks, radicalising of the youth and inciting extremism leading to terrorist attacks.

Development, human rights, security and international law are promoted through international forums such as the UN and its agencies.

United Nations

The UN occupies the central and indispensable role within the global system of governance. South Africa looks to the UN to advance the global peace and security and the development agenda, and address underdevelopment, social integration, full employment and decent work for all and the eradication of poverty globally.

Through its participation in multilateral forums, South Africa also upholds the belief that the resolution of international conflicts should be peaceful and in accordance with the centrality of the UN Charter and the principles of international law.

South Africa was one of the 51 founding members of the UN in 1945. Since then, the UN membership has grown to 193 states. After being suspended in 1974, owing to international opposition to the policy of apartheid, South Africa was readmitted to the UN in 1994, following its transition to democracy.

UNGA and the UNSC

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the general debate and high-level meetings of the 75th Session of the UNGA (UNGA75) took place virtually from 18 September to 2 October 2020, under the theme; “The Future we Want, the UN we Need: Reaffirming our Collective Commitment to Multilateralism”. President Ramaphosa participated in the General Debate of UNGA75 and several other high-level events.

He participated in six high-level meetings and two side-events that took place on the margins of the event – the high-level event on the SDGs moment; the high-level meeting of the UNGA to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the formation of the UN; the high-level meeting on financing the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in the era of COVID-19 and beyond; the Summit on Biodiversity; the high-level meeting of the GA on the 25th anniversary of the Fourth World Conference on Women; the high-level meeting to commemorate the International Day for the Total Elimination of Nuclear Weapons; the high-level virtual panel discussion by the Group of 7 (G7) Partnership for Women’s Digital Financial Inclusion in Africa; and the UNSC Summit on Global Governance and post-COVID-19.

The President addressed key issues facing the country, in particular the plans for recovery from COVID-19. He used the UNGA75 to champion pertinent issues facing the continent, in particular Pan-African initiatives to combat COVID-19, including the mitigation of its socio-economic impact. He also highlighted significant progress made towards silencing the guns and accelerating the continent’s economic integration within the framework of the AfCFTA.

The UNGA75 high-level segment reaffirmed the importance of multilateralism. It was an opportunity for the international community to display solidarity in fighting the COVID-19 pandemic. President Ramaphosa’s participation in the various high-level events ensured South Africa’s visibility and allowed him to place critical concerns of the African continent on the venerable global stage.

South Africa concluded its non-permanent membership of the UNSC in December 2020, after serving for two years. This was South Africa’s third term on the UNSC. Its term was defined by the theme; “Continuing the Legacy: Working for a Just and Peaceful World”, drawing on the legacy of former President Nelson Mandela following the centenary of his birth as well as the legacy of South Africa’s two previous terms on the council.

Going into the council, South Africa’s priorities were on building on advances made in its previous terms on the council and focussed on the implementation thereof, including UN-AU cooperation, the Women Peace and Security, and Youth Peace and Security agendas, and the peaceful settlement of disputes.

South Africa’s last year in the council coincided with its chairship of the AU. This presented the country with a unique opportunity to advance the African Agenda in both institutions and harmonise its priorities of promoting UNSC decisions in support of the AU initiative of silencing the guns across Africa.

During its time on the UNSC, South Africa continued to promote a multilateral approach to addressing issues related to international peace and security in order to ensure global sustainable peace. The importance of a proactive approach to the maintenance of international peace and security, particularly in the form of drawing greater attention to preventative diplomacy mechanisms, as well as post-conflict reconstruction and development underpinned much of South Africa’s engagement on the council. Further, South Africa strived for consensus and unity of the UNSC in its attempts to play the role of a bridge-builder and to improve proactive actions on issues on the agenda of the council and thus the integrity of the UNSC.

South Africa pursued collaboration with all council members and thus continued to identify opportunities for cooperation with like-minded countries. In this regard, as an elected member, the country forged close links with the other two African countries serving on the council, the so-called A3. South Africa also worked with other developing countries that are part of the NAM and with other elected ten members as well as like-minded countries on issues of mutual interest.

In terms of continental issues on the agenda of the UNSC, South Africa advanced the approach of the AU in addressing the African conflicts on the council’s agenda. South Africa continued to advance the partnership between the UN and the AU in the prevention and peaceful settlement of disputes, continuing the legacy of its first two terms on the Security Council. For South Africa, this cooperation is strategic for promoting the principles of comparative advantage, complementarity, subsidiarity and burden-sharing.

UN Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC)

The council is a premier organ of the UN responsible for the economic and social development matters of the world. South Africa regards sustainable development as a collective opportunity and responsibility that can be achieved through multilateral cooperation, and will continue its active role in the ECOSOC-mandated processes to address the follow-up and review of financing for development outcomes and the means of implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, all of which are crucial to the realisation of the SDGs.

South Africa further actively participates in the functional commissions of the ECOSOC such as the Commission for Social Development, and the Commission on the Status of Women.

United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO)

South Africa is an active participant in key UNESCO governance structures such as the General Conference and the World Heritage Committee and served on the organisation's Executive Board (for the term 2015 – 2019).

South Africa also acceded to the Convention for the Protection of Cultural Property in the Event of Armed Conflict (December 2003) and the Convention on the Protection of Underwater Cultural Heritage (May 2015).

Since South Africa ratified the World Heritage Convention in 1997, it has inscribed 10 world heritage sites under the convention, namely the:

- Fossil Hominid Sites of South Africa (1999);
- Robben Island Museum (1999);
- iSimangaliso Wetland Park (1999);
- Maloti-Drakensberg Park (2000);
- Mapungubwe Cultural Landscape (2003);
- Cape Floral Region Protected Areas (2004);
- Vredefort Dome (2005);
- Richtersveld Cultural and Botanical Landscape (2007);
- #Khomani Cultural Landscape (2017); and
- Barberton Makhonjwa Mountains (2018).

National interaction with the UNESCO's various areas of work is coordinated through the South African National Commission for the UNESCO, whose secretariat is hosted by the Department of Basic Education.

Human rights and humanitarian affairs

South Africa played a leadership role in several intergovernmental processes at the UN pertaining to norms and standard setting in international human rights and humanitarian law, law of international protection for asylum seekers, refugees, including migrants, the empowerment of women and gender equality, the protection of the rights of the child and persons with disabilities, as well as food security and nutrition.

To this end, the South African delegation to this system took leadership roles such as chairing relevant intergovernmental working groups, initiating and negotiating flagship resolutions, influencing as well as impacting the agenda setting in these areas.

In the above context, the most important initiative entails the leadership role in the work of the ad-hoc committee on the Elaboration of Complementary Standards to the International Convention for the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, aimed at combating contemporary forms of racism.

Despite gains made since the country gained democracy, there are still critical challenges that threaten the plight of children. Key priorities that remain for South Africa include early childhood development and care; violence against children; health and nutrition; and quality education and life skills programmes. South Africa, therefore, encourages states addressing the rights of the child within multilateral fora, to remain steadfast in strengthening and enhancing the important gains that have been made for children from developing countries. This will ensure that children experience the care and protection they deserve and have a voice in the decisions that are made pertaining to them.

The 43rd Session of the United Nations Human Rights Council was held from 24 to 26 February 2020 in Geneva, Switzerland. South Africa's participation at the high-level segment focused on outlining the country's human rights priorities for 2020; giving an update on government's efforts in ensuring the promotion, protection, fulfilment, enjoyment and practical realisation of human rights; initiating the process of lobbying support for the 20th anniversary of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action (DDPA), in particular the convening of a one-day high-level plenary event to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the adoption of the DDPA on the margins of the high-level segment of the 76th Session of the UNGA in 2021; and delivering messages on advancing gender equality, empowerment of women, and combating violence against women and girls.

South Africa participated in two high-level panel discussions on human rights mainstreaming, whose theme focused on; "Thirty years of the implementation of the Convention on the Rights of the Child: Challenges and Opportunities"; and the 25th anniversary of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action adopted at the 4th World Conference on Women.

World Health Organisation (WHO)

South Africa is one of the 194 member states that constitute the WHO. The country takes part in the annual World Health Assembly (WHA), which is the WHO's supreme decision-making body, as well as in its executive board meetings.

South Africa also participates in the WHO's Regional Committee for Africa, which convenes annually after the WHA to reflect on decisions taken at the assembly (particularly those relevant to the continent) and plan for the following year's WHA.

Through its participation in these structures, South Africa contributes to setting international norms and standards on key issues regarding global and public health such as:

- the implementation of international health regulations;
- addressing antimicrobial resistance;
- the fight against HIV and AIDS, tuberculosis and malaria;
- building resilient healthcare systems in developing states;
- ensuring access to medicines;
- achieving Universal Health Coverage (National Health Insurance in South Africa); and
- contributing to economic growth through health employment.

In April 2020, President Ramaphosa participated in the WHO virtual launch of a global collaboration to accelerate the development, production and equitable global access to new COVID-19 essential health technologies. The launch was co-hosted by WHO Director-General (DG), Dr Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus; France President Emmanuel Macron; European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen; and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation. President Ramaphosa participated in his capacity as President of South Africa and Chair of the AU.

Global health actors, private sector partners and other stakeholders came together to create a global platform for action which aimed to enhance connections and leverage interdependencies for collective thought-partnership, problem-solving, mobilising and guiding investments. This platform secured equitable access for new COVID-19 diagnostics, therapeutics and vaccines.

It enabled partners to avoid duplication and overlap, and identify gaps and close them before they emerged. It also connected upstream and downstream activities with countries and communities. Its mission was not only accelerated development and production of new COVID-19 tools – it was to accelerate equitable global access to safe, quality, effective, and affordable COVID-19 diagnostics, therapeutics and vaccines, and thus to ensure that in the fight against COVID-19, no one is left behind.

In May 2020, President Ramaphosa attended the 73rd WHA where he affirmed South Africa's support for the WHO, which has been key in guiding the international response to the COVID-19 pandemic. The WHO has been instrumental in providing guidance and support to African governments with early detection of the pandemic, training health workers and strengthening surveillance in communities.

Group of Twenty

South Africa has been a permanent member of the G20 since its inception in 1999, following the Asian financial crises. The G20 was established to increase multilateral cooperation for the recovery of the global economy, to bring stability to the global financial system, to promote long-term sustainable growth and to strengthen global economic governance.

The G20 economies account for 85% of the global GDP, 80% of world trade and two-thirds of the world's population. Since the escalation of the G20 to Leaders' Summit Level in 2008, the agenda has significantly expanded to include issues of geopolitical, development and trade significance. South Africa's participation in the G20 has sought to provide strategic foresight in establishing an economic and financial international policy platform that will drive and negotiate the best possible outcomes for South Africa, Africa and the developing world. South Africa has been the permanent Co-Chair of the Development Working Group since 2010 for the promotion of national and continental priorities. Addressing the scourge of illicit financial flows has the potential to unlock billions of dollars that could be utilised to fund Africa and the developing world's development.

In addition, South Africa has consistently advanced G20 support for industrialisation in Africa and least developed countries, the implementation of the G20 Partnership with Africa and enhanced G20 support to developing countries by providing the means of implementation for achieving the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda. These initiatives are aimed at positively impacting the development trajectory of Africa and the developing world and contribute positively to achieving the global commitment of leaving no one behind.

The G20 is unique in its composition of countries of the North and South, and therefore, as a collective body, tends to carry significant profile and influence. South Africa, as the only permanent African member of the G20, has used its participation to advance national priorities, the African Agenda of Sustainable Development, inclusive growth, the reduction of inequality and the promotion of a just economic world order.

In the future, the strategic trajectory of the G20 is anticipated to transform from a crisis response mechanism focusing on short-term policies to one of long-term governance that shapes medium- to long-term policies, and will solidify its role as the premier forum for international economic governance.

South Africa also works closely with the following international bodies and organisations:

- World Trade Organisation (WTO).
- World Economic Forum.
- Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development.
- International Labour Organisation (ILO).
- World Intellectual Property Organisation (WIPO).

The country continues to engage with key global economic institutions such as the WTO, the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development, the ILO and WIPO to ensure that South Africa benefits from trade, investment, industrialisation and innovation to address the triple challenges of poverty, inequality and unemployment as espoused in the NDP.

South Africa pursues a system that is sensitive to the needs of the poorest, while leaving policy space at national level to address the development challenges of the South and Africa.

Continental Agenda African Union

The establishment of the Organisation of African Unity (OAU) in 1963 by 32 countries in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia was intended to continue the fight against colonialism and apartheid on the African continent, promote unity and solidarity, safeguard the sovereignty and territorial integrity of member states and coordinate and intensify cooperation for development.

Following the realisation of the objectives that were set during the advent of the OAU, particularly the mission to emancipate the continent from the shackles of colonial and apartheid rule, the AU was formed and brought to force in 2002, wherein 54 countries agreed to chart a new path for the continent, more specifically its economic development.

This new path which was set in 2002 by the AU was underpinned in the determination to tackle and address the multifaceted social, economic and political challenges, through forging an integrated continent that can ultimately realise its full economic potential and play its rightful role in the global economy.

To this end, the AU is making progressive strides and moving towards the right direction in its mission to address the long-standing challenges of underdevelopment, and consequent poverty, unemployment and inequality on the continent.

The AU recognised the need to develop a long-term strategy, resulting in the adoption of Agenda 2063 in 2015 by the Heads of State and Government during the 24th Ordinary Session in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

Agenda 2063 has identified seven cardinal aspirations, which provide an indication of what the continent should achieve by the year 2063:

- a prosperous Africa based on inclusive growth and sustainable development;
- an integrated continent, politically united based on the ideals of Pan-Africanism and the vision of Africa's renaissance;
- an Africa of good governance, democracy, respect for human rights, justice and the rule of law;
- a peaceful and secure Africa;
- an Africa with a strong cultural identity, common heritage, values and ethics;
- an Africa where development is people driven, unleashing the potential of its women and youth; and
- Africa as a strong united and influential global player and partner.

Appreciating the need that the realisation of the objectives set by Agenda 2063 should be fulfilled, there was a formulation of its first ten-year implementation plan. Thus far, there's been progress made in this regard, as evidenced by:

- the adoption of the Protocol on the Free Movement of Persons in Africa,
- member states having committed to the AfCFTA; and
- the Single African Air Transport Market being launched.

These flagship programmes of Agenda 2063 are the catalysts which will ensure the acceleration of integration within the continent and will further enable African countries to maximise economic opportunities, particularly trade amongst them.

The objective of the AfCFTA is to promote intra-African trade and offer an opportunity to create larger economies of scale, a bigger market and improve the prospects of the African continent to attract investment. In addition, the AfCFTA will bring together the 55 member states of the AU, covering a market of more than 1.2 billion people, including a growing middle class and a combined GDP of more than US$3.4 trillion.

Furthermore, the AU has noted that in order to successfully move the continent forward, it has to transform the manner in which it conducts its business. Currently, the AU is undergoing a rigorous process of reviewing how it has been operating, through engaging the recommendations made during the institutional reform process. The successful implementation of the agreement borne out of this process will ensure that the AU becomes more effective and efficient in carrying out its mandate.

South Africa, as a member of the AU, remains committed to the organisation and it has demonstrated its desire to ensure that the organisation succeeds. Currently, South Africa is hosting the Pan-African Parliament, the APRM and the AUDA-NEPAD, amongst others. Additionally, the country continues to play a steering role in matters related to peace and security on the continent.

South Africa is a member of the AU Committee of five on South Sudan, and through Deputy President David Mabuza, was involved in mediating the agreement that led to the establishment of the Transitional Government of National Unity in South Sudan on 22 February 2020.

South Africa is a member of the AU High-Level Committee on Libya. Through these initiatives and its active involvement, South Africa continues to contribute towards the realisation of the aspiration of silencing the guns in Africa.

In February 2021, the Global Citizen in partnership with the European Commission and the WHO launched the Recover Better Together post-COVID-19 campaign. The campaign's aim is to create momentum for global COVID-19 pandemic recovery and a return to the implementation of global goals.

The initiative brought together governments, world leaders, philanthropists, corporates, and civil society around a five-point recovery plan with the objective to:

- end the pandemic by ensuring equitable access to COVID-19 tests, vaccines, treatments, diagnostics and therapeutics for everyone, everywhere;
- stop the hunger crisis by ensuring nutrition security and strengthening food system resilience for all;
- get children back in school by creating a #ReturnToLearn model that bridges the digital divide and ensures all children are safe and receive quality and inclusive education;
- cool the planet by protecting the earth's resources to promote the well-being of people and the planet; and
- protect the most marginalized by ensuring a fair, just and inclusive recovery that leaves no one behind.

AU Summit

South Africa's Advocate Dumisa Ntsebeza was appointed a member of the African Court on Human and Peoples' Rights during the 34th AU Heads of State and Government Ordinary Summit. The summit was held from 6 to 7 February 2021 under the theme; "Arts, Culture and Heritage: Levers for Building the Africa we Want".

He was selected together with Sacko Modibo from Mali as new judges. The Justices replaced Sylvain Oré from the Côte d'Ivoire (2010 – 2021) and Ângelo Vasco Matusse (2014 – 2021) from Mozambique.

The African Court on Human and Peoples' Rights is the judicial arm of the AU and one of the three regional human rights courts, together with the European Court of Human Rights and the Inter-American Court of Human rights. It was established to protect human rights in Africa, principally through the delivery of judgments.

Peace and Security Council

South Africa continues to promote peace and stability on the African continent through preventative diplomacy, peacemaking, peacebuilding and peacekeeping efforts.

In this context, the country's approach to peacekeeping resonates strongly with the AU's aspirational goal adopted by the AU Assembly of African Heads of State and Government on 25 May 2013 in Addis Ababa of "Silencing the Guns by the Year 2020".

The AU's flagship project on addressing peace and security issues in the context of the African Peace and Security Architecture (APSA), is built around structures, objectives, principles and values, as well as decision-making processes relating to the prevention, management and resolution of crises and conflicts and post-conflict reconstruction and development on the continent.

Furthermore, the Peace and Security Council of the AU remains the main pillar of the APSA and is supported by various structures, including the AU Commission, the Panel of the Wise, the continental Early Warning System, the African Standby Force and the Peace Fund.

The relationship between the AU and the regional economic communities/regional mechanisms for conflict prevention, management and resolution remains crucial for the success of the APSA.

South Africa has actively participated, through both bilateral and multilateral efforts, to resolve some of the continent's pressing conflict areas.

These countries include Lesotho, the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC), Madagascar, Burundi, South Sudan, Somalia, CAR, Mali and Libya. South Africa also remains engaged in the peace and security dynamics of the Horn of Africa, the Sahel, the Great Lakes Region and the Lake Chad Basin.

South Africa will continue to play its part in conflict resolution in these countries and respective regions. In addition, South Africa reaffirms its continued solidarity to assist the people of Western Sahara in pursuit of their inalienable right to self-determination and decolonisation. South Africa remains steadfast in its rejection of all acts of terrorism and extremism that have increasingly affected Africa, contributing to internal instability.

In July 2021, government called on security forces in Eswatini to exercise total restraint and protect the lives and property of the people, in keeping with the country's constitutional provisions and laws, following political unrests in that country.

AU regional economic communities

The AU is the principal institution responsible for promoting sustainable development at economic, social and cultural level, as well as integrating African economies.

Regional economic communities are recognised as the building blocks of the AU, necessitating the need for their close involvement in formulating and implementing all AU programmes.

To this end, the AU must coordinate and take decisions on policies in areas of common interest to member states, as well as coordinate and harmonise policies between existing and future regional economic communities, for the gradual attainment of the AU's objectives.

Seven specialised technical committees are responsible for the actual implementation of the continental socio-economic integration process, together with the Permanent Representatives Committee.

South Africa's development is intertwined with that of the southern Africa region and the African continent at large. The country's efforts at ramping up industrialisation should be viewed within the overall framework of the SADC

Industrialisation Strategy and Roadmap, as approved by the SADC Extra-Ordinary Summit in April 2015. South Africa seeks to industrialise the regional and continental economies in order to develop its own manufacturing capacity.

In addition, the country seeks to radically alter the colonial/post-colonial pattern where Africa was a supplier of raw materials. It is of the view that Africa should produce value-added goods for exports into the global economy. It is only in this way that Africa can address the paradox of a rich-resource continent inhabited by a poverty-stricken population, and make a decisive break with the past.

African Union Development Agency-New Partnership for Africa's Development

At the 31st Ordinary Session of the Assembly of AU Heads of State and Government in Nouakchott, Mauritania, African heads of state and government received several reports, including the status of the implementation of the AU institutional reforms. During the summit, a decision was officially taken on the transformation of the NEPAD Planning and Coordination Agency into the AUDA.

The Assembly approved the establishment of AUDA as the technical body of the AU with its own legal identity, defined by its own statute. The reforms are an affirmation by member states of their commitment to the NEPAD as the union's own instrument established to champion catalytic support to countries and regional bodies in advancing the implementation of the continent's development vision – as articulated in the seven aspirations and 20 goals of Agenda 2063.

A core aspect of the current reforms is to streamline and improve effectiveness and efficiency in delivery in the implementation of AU decisions, policies and programmes across all its organs and institutions.

The AUDA-NEPAD, an AU strategic framework for Pan-African socio-economic development, is both a vision and a policy framework for Africa in the 21st century. It provides unique opportunities for African countries to take full control of their development agenda, to work more closely together, and to cooperate more effectively with international partners.

The AUDA-NEPAD manages a number of programmes and projects in six theme areas, namely:

- agriculture and food security;
- climate change and national resource management;
- regional integration and infrastructure;

- human development;
- economic and corporate governance; and
- cross-cutting issues, including gender, capacity development and information and communications technology (ICT).

South Africa, as one of the initiating countries, played a key role in the establishment of the AUDA-NEPAD and the African APRM, and hosts the AUDA-NEPAD Agency and APRM Secretariat in Midrand, Gauteng.

The APRM process is aimed at addressing corruption, poor governance and inefficient delivery of public goods and services to the citizens of African countries. It encourages the adoption of policies, standards and practices that lead to political stability, high economic growth, sustainable development and accelerated regional and continental economic integration through the sharing of experiences and best practices, and is important to the sustainability of the AUDA-NEPAD.

The AUDA-NEPAD remains the main programme of reference for intra-African socio-economic and developmental relations and Africa's partnerships with international partners such as the:

- European Union (EU)-AU Strategic Partnership,
- Forum on China-Africa Cooperation,
- Group of Seven (G7) Most Industrialised Nations plus Russia,
- Tokyo International Conference on African Development (TICAD),
- New Asian-African Strategic Partnership, and
- Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development.

Through the AUDA-NEPAD, Africa has expanded its development priorities. Development and funding in agriculture, ICT, science and technology, infrastructure and education have improved the quality of life for millions of Africans.

Southern African Development Community

The SADC developed from the Southern African Development Coordination Conference (SADCC), which was established in 1980. It adopted its current name during a summit held in Windhoek, Namibia, in August 1992.

Before 1992, the aim of the SADCC was to forge close economic cooperation with southern African countries, excluding South Africa, to bolster their economies and reduce their dependence on the South African economy.

From 1992, when the organisation became SADC, its mandate changed to:

- promoting and defending peace and security;
- evolving common values, systems and institutions;
- establishing an open economy based on equality, mutual benefit and balanced development;
- breaking down tariff barriers;
- promoting trade exchanges and mutual investment;
- realising the free movement of goods, personnel and labour services;
- achieving the unification of tariffs and currencies; and
- establishing a free trade zone.

The initial member states were Angola, Botswana, Lesotho, Malawi, Mauritius, Mozambique, Namibia, Eswatini, Tanzania, Zambia and Zimbabwe. South Africa became a member after 1994.

South Africa has consistently sought to nurture regional integration at three levels: The Southern African Customs Union (SACU), the SADC and the Tripartite Free Trade Agreement (TFTA) between the SADC, the Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa (COMESA) and East African Countries (EAC). In particular, South Africa has championed a “developmental regionalism” approach that combines market integration, cross-border infrastructure development as well as policy coordination to diversify production and boost intra-African trade. South Africa contributed to the development of the SACU’s five-point plan, which aims to transform the customs union from a tariff and a revenue-sharing agreement to an integrated institution capable of promoting true regional economic development.

The outbreak of COVID-19 has thrown the programmes of all regional organisations, including the SADC, into disarray. The organisation had to postpone a planned programme to celebrate its 40 years of existence and suspended some of its activities or conducted them virtually. The same challenge was encountered by the SACU and regional economic communities, constituting the TFTA. Due to COVID-19 measures and travel bans, a number of planned activities or projects by the SADC Secretariat had to be rescheduled or postponed pending containment of the pandemic. They include:

- the SADC Defence and Intelligence Courses, which were scheduled to be held in South Africa and Zimbabwe between May – July 2020;
- an intelligence analysis course, which was scheduled for 4 to 29 May 2020 in South Africa and the Regional Collection and Counter Intelligence from 15 June to 30 July 2020 in Zimbabwe;

- the SADC Standby Force Special Forces Exercise, which was supposed to be held in Botswana in May 2020; and
- the Legal Experts Meeting – Harmonisation of Corrections and Prison Services Legislation, Policies and Procedure, which was scheduled for 18 to 19 March 2020.

Work in the SADC continues to focus on consolidating the SADC Free Trade Agreement (FTA), launched in 2008, before considering deeper forms of integration in the region. The ongoing negotiations to establish the TFTA will combine the three major regional economic communities of 600 million people and a combined GDP of USD$1 trillion, as building blocks towards continental integration.

The establishment of the TFTA between the COMESA, EAC and SADC has been heralded as one of the most important developments in Africa. It responds to the need for Africa to overcome small fragmented markets and increases prospects of stimulating industrialisation, employment, income generation and poverty reduction. It further addresses the negative impact on industrialisation, economies of scale and competitiveness.

The TFTA is a key Africa-led project that is being done through the promotion of intra-African investments and attraction of more foreign investment into the FTA. It is an important initiative in accelerating regional integration efforts aimed at improved intra-African trade.

The TFTA is anchored on the development integration approach that is based on three pillars: market integration, infrastructure development and industrial development. The TFTA has not yet entered into force due to low level of ratifications by some member states. By April 2021, only 10 countries in the tripartite region out of the required 14 had ratified the agreement. Ratifications aside, meetings of the TFTA have been taking place to deal with pertinent issues in the tripartite region. To this effect, South Africa participated in a virtual Extra-Ordinary Meeting of the Tripartite Council of Ministers on 29 July 2020.

The meeting considered and approved the COMESA-EAC-SADC tripartite trade and transport facilitation guidelines for the movement of persons, goods and services across the tripartite region during the COVID-19 Pandemic. The guidelines would help the region to curb the spread of COVID-19. South Africa has played a critical role in promoting peace, security and political stability in the SADC region, including participation in peace missions, creating an environment conducive to regional political integration, facilitation and the promotion of democracy and good governance.

Pursuant to the revised SADC Principles and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections, South Africa participated, as part of the SADC Organ Troika team, in the Virtual Electoral Stakeholders’ Engagements. This engagement was mainly about orienting electoral observers to the virtual system to be used for elections in Seychelles, from 22 to 24 October 2020 and Tanzania on 28 October 2020, using the experience of the SADC virtual engagements in the Presidential Election in Malawi, held on 23 June 2020, instead of deploying physical SADC electoral observation missions.

South Africa’s facilitation role in Lesotho continued in 2020 as mandated by the 39th Ordinary SADC Summit of Heads of State and Government. There has been noticeable progress in the reform process in Lesotho although there is a serious and urgent need to ensure that the Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) signed by all Basotho stakeholders in 2018 continues to be respected and implemented in both letter and spirit. This SADC-sponsored MoU remains a cornerstone for the transformation of Lesotho and the edifice of the National Reform Authority.

Strengthening African cooperation and regional integration

The SADC remains critical for the region’s economic development and for South Africa’s global competitiveness. The 40th SADC Summit of Heads of States and Government, held in August 2020, approved the SADC Vision 2050 and the Regional Indicative Strategic Development Plan 2020 – 2030. The document envisions a region that is peaceful, inclusive and industrialised, and where all citizens enjoy sustainable economic well-being, justice and freedom. The plan seeks to operationalise Vision 2050 through industrial development and market integration, infrastructure development in support of regional integration as well as social and human capital development, all of which are anchored on a firm foundation of peace, security and good governance. These two strategic documents will serve as a roadmap for the SADC’s socio-economic and political integration for the next 30 years with periodic monitoring and evaluation of their efficacious implementation.

South Africa continues to participate in the SADC Double Troika Leadership Oversight Structure and monitor the implementation of the SADC summit decisions and resolutions in advancing political and economic integration. In this regard,

South Africa was elected the incoming Chair of the SADC Troika during the 40th SADC Summit. This new responsibility places South Africa on the cusp of the region's peace and security agenda, particularly during the times of the emergence and heightening of violent extremism in the region.

The SACU continues to serve as a primary building bloc in the achievement of regional economic integration. This informs South Africa's interest in developing the SACU into a vehicle that advances developmental integration, as opposed to a narrowly defined customs union based on a Common External Tariff and a revenue share arrangement. South Africa assumed chairship of the SACU in June 2020. During this period, the SACU has established the Technical Committee on Industrialisation, Export and Investment Promotion with the objective of positioning it to play a meaningful role in the integration and industrialisation of the African continent.

On 29 November 2020, South Africa signed instruments of ratification of the Economic Partnership Agreement (EPA) between the SACU member states and Mozambique on the one part and the UK on the other part. Subsequently, the instruments of ratification were signed and deposited to the SACU Secretariat for the SACUM-EPA to enter into force at the end of January 2021.

The DIRCO continues to play an active role in the AU structures and processes for the advancement of peace and security; and conflict prevention, resolution and management on the continent. This includes the strengthening of mechanisms to consolidate peace and prevent post-conflict in countries such as Libya and South Sudan, from backsliding into civil unrest. As one of the largest contributors to the AU budget, South Africa's membership contribution was expected to increase by R213.3 million in 2020/21 (from R251 million to R464.3 million) to address a shortfall as a result of the current scale of assessment to determine countries' membership fees to the AU. This contribution is expected to decrease to R265.1 million in 2021/22, when the current three-year cycle of the scale of assessment lapses.

Development partners

One key feature that distinguishes the AU from its predecessor, the OAU is its vision of an integrated, prosperous, equitable, well-governed and peaceful United States of Africa, effectively managed by its own citizens and representing a creative and dynamic force in the international arena. The last component of this vision establishes the need to cooperate strategically with other regional groupings, international organisations and states to promote Africa's interests, acquire support to enable the attainment of her objectives, increase Africa's international stature and obtain the global leverage that would enable the continent to maximise its impact in the geopolitical arena.

Consequently, South Africa through the AU, has entered a number of structured strategic partnerships around the world in line with the clear vision and development strategy of the AU. The partnerships emphasise the implementation of industrialisation and technology transfer, infrastructure development, trade and investment, development of human capital, social investment, and sustainable and inclusive growth policies, programmes and projects of continental, regional and national dimension.

These relations include continent-continent partnerships such as the Africa-EU partnership, the Africa-South America Summit and partnership between Africa and the Arab World and country-continent partnerships such as Forum on China-Africa Cooperation, TICAD, the Africa-India Forum, the Africa-Turkey partnership and the Africa-Korea partnership.

These partnerships are established and covered or governed by strategic partnership agreements, MoUs, declarations and frameworks of cooperation and various senior officials meetings, ministerial meetings and summits have been held over the years to review these partnerships.

These strategic partnerships enable African partners to take advantage of the continent's anticipated growth, its growing consumer market, demand for industrial products, demand for engineering, procurement and construction services and supply of basic raw materials, natural resources and strategic industrial inputs.

Previously, the partnerships involved commitments to provide assistance in agricultural and technological development, human capital development, industrialisation, infrastructural development as well as military expertise for the peacebuilding and peacemaking efforts of the AU. However, the emerging trend is that partners are aggressively promoting their respective private sectors to the fore and trade, investments and market access is acquiring prominence.

Relations with countries of the South remain strong and the BRICS membership has yielded benefits for the country and is expected to do so for the rest of the continent. Efforts continue within BRICS on common objectives, including addressing challenges in respective regions and the world at large. BRICS also continues to provide alternative market access as well as strategic political support in pursuit of a just and equitable world.

In the same vein, South Africa continues to support the consolidation of the India, Brazil and South Africa (IBSA) Dialogue Forum. The forum serves as an intimate platform that coordinates matters of common interest and concern, and promotes development through the IBSA Fund for the alleviation of poverty and hunger.

The Indian Ocean region is of vital importance and of growing geostrategic significance. South Africa views the IORA as the pre-eminent regional organisation linking Africa, the Middle East and Asia via the Indian Ocean. The association is growing in stature and prominence. South Africa continues to participate in the Organisation of African, Caribbean and Pacific States (OACPS), previously known as the Africa, Caribbean and Pacific Group (ACP), to promote South-South solidarity and the interests of the South and enhance dialogue and cooperation on political and sustainable development issues between the OACPS and the EU, its main development partner.

Brazil, Russia, India, China, South Africa

BRICS is an association of five major emerging countries, which together represent about 42% of the global population, 23% of the GDP, 30% of the territory and 18% of the global trade. South Africa's membership of BRICS enables the country to employ additional and powerful tools in its fight to address the triple challenges of unemployment, poverty and inequality through increased trade, investment, tourism, capacity building, skills and technology transfers.

These objectives are further realised through BRICS' financial institutions like the New Development Bank (NDB) and the Africa Regional Centre (ARC). The Johannesburg-based ARC plays a catalytic role in providing financial and project preparation support for infrastructure and sustainable development projects in South Africa and Africa.

At an institutional development level, South Africa derives crucial benefits through Track II institutions, such as the BRICS Business Council and the BRICS Think-Tank Council, as well as the creation of the BRICS Inter-Bank Cooperation Mechanism. Furthermore, the establishment of the BRICS Science, Technology and Innovation Funding Mechanism and Framework Programme, is an example of the vital support for capacity building, as well as skills and technology transfer.

BRICS cooperation in the fields of digitalisation, industrialisation and innovation was further enhanced through the establishment of the BRICS New Partnership for Industrial Revolution. The objective of the partnership is to address challenges and maximise opportunities arising from the Fourth Industrial Revolution (4IR) by strengthening policy coordination, promoting human skills development in cutting-edge technologies, sharing best practices in digitalisation and initiating joint infrastructure projects.

South Africa continues to make concerted efforts to place Africa and the Global South on the agenda of BRICS and to harmonise policies adopted in regional and international fora with those pursued in BRICS – the Africa’s Agenda 2063 and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. The exponential institutional development of BRICS has yielded institutions, including the NDB, ARC and the Contingent Reserve Arrangement, amongst others, all of which are intended to make tangible and impactful contributions toward the development objectives of South Africa and BRICS.

In June 2020, the board of the NDB approved a US$ 1 billion Emergency Assistance Programme Loan to South Africa to support government to contain the spread of COVID-19 and reduce human, social and economic losses caused by the pandemic.

The 12th BRICS Summit was hosted by Russia on 17 November 2020 via video teleconferencing under the theme; “BRICS Partnership for Global Stability, Shared Security and Innovative Growth”.

At the summit, President Ramaphosa called for the BRICS partners to support South Africa’s, and the continent’s post-COVID-19 economic recovery. The BRICS partners jointly appealed for global access to a COVID-19 vaccine.

The key outcomes of Russia’s 2020 BRICS Chairship were:

- the adoption of a revised Strategy for BRICS Economic Partnership (2025);
- the adoption of the BRICS Counter-Terrorism Strategy; and
- the first projects of the Energy Research Cooperation Platform.

IBSA Dialogue Forum

The IBSA Dialogue Forum brings together three large pluralistic, multi-cultural and multi-racial societies from three continents as a purely South-South grouping of like-minded countries committed to inclusive sustainable development, in pursuit of the well-being of their peoples and those of the developing world. The principles, norms and values underpinning the IBSA Dialogue Forum are participatory democracy, respect for human rights, the rule of law and the strengthening of multilateralism.

The realisation of the trilateral alliance between IBSA stems from three commonalities between the three countries, namely: all three countries are vibrant democracies, they share common views on various global issues and are substantial emerging economies within their sub-regions.

The IBSA Fund is a flagship programme of the dialogue forum that has successfully delivered impact-driven projects in developing and least developed countries. The IBSA Fund has made it possible for South Africa to contribute in a meaningful and substantive manner towards international efforts to alleviate extreme poverty and hunger in developing countries.

The engagement process of the IBSA countries takes place on a number of levels, including Summit (Heads of State and Government), the IBSA Trilateral Ministerial Commission meeting (Ministers), and Senior Officials and Technical (through various working groups).

Indian Ocean Rim Association

The IORA is a charter-based regional multilateral organisation of 22 littoral and island states around the Indian Ocean and 10 dialogue partner countries. It seeks to build and expand understanding and mutually beneficial cooperation through a consensus-based, evolutionary and non-intrusive approach.

The IORA was established on 7 March 1997 and it is an initiative that came into existence, through former President Mandela’s visionary leadership, during his official visit to India in 1995. The IORA region is a huge market of more than three billion people.

South Africa views the IORA as an important platform for the implementation of its economic diplomacy objectives as well as the articulation of its foreign policy, which upholds the importance of multilateralism and global collaboration in resolving the intricate challenges facing the world.

South Africa concluded its two-year Chairship of the IORA in November 2019 when it handed over the position to the UAE during the 19th IORA Council of Ministers held in Abu Dhabi.

South Africa’s membership of the IORA provides an important platform to pursue the country’s domestic imperatives as well as other regional and global programmes, such as the AU’s

Agenda 2063; the 2050 African Integrated Maritime Strategy; the AUDA-NEPAD, Agenda 2030 and the AfCFTA.

The IORA member states vary considerably in terms of their areas, populations and levels of economic development. They can also be divided into a number of sub-regions – Australasia, Southeast Asia, South Asia, West Asia and Eastern and Southern Africa – each with its own regional groupings (such as the ASEAN, the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation, Gulf Cooperation Council and the SADC). Despite such diversity and differences, these countries are bound together by the Indian Ocean.

During the South African Chairship, the IORA also adopted a special declaration to commemorate the centenary of former President Mandela and established the IORA-Nelson Mandela Be the Legacy Internship Programme as a contribution to empowering and capacitating the youth of the Indian Ocean Region. South Africa remained part of the IORA Troika until the end of 2021. The troika is constituted as follows: UAE (Chair), Bangladesh (Vice Chair) and South Africa (past Chair).

South Africa also remained either in the leading or core cluster country role of various IORA working groups established to implement key regional-wide developmental programmes that emanate from the six IORA priority areas and two cross-cutting thematic areas. South Africa held the position of IORA Secretary-General from 2018 to January 2021.

Organisation of African, Caribbean and Pacific States

South Africa joined the then ACP grouping of 79-member states (48 of which are Sub-Saharan) to promote South-South solidarity and objectives. The ACP recently went through a two-pronged transformation process. Firstly, the Constitutive Act of the ACP, the Georgetown Agreement, was revised to enable the ACP to adapt and meet challenges of the current global environment. The adoption of the revised Georgetown Agreement transformed the ACP into the OACPS in April 2020.

The OACPS aims to assist member states eradicate poverty, achieve sustainable development and fully benefit from the advantages of trade through more effective participation in the world economy. Secondly, the organisation’s relations with its main partner, the EU, have also been in the process of renegotiation as the Cotonou Partnership Agreement, which governs these relations, would be replaced by the New Partnership Agreement by November 2021.

The New Partnership Agreement consists of an umbrella agreement and three region-specific protocols – African, Caribbean and Pacific. The Africa Regional Protocol is modelled on the strategic priorities of the AU Agenda 2063: The Africa we Want. The New Partnership Agreement, like its predecessor, will be the only legally binding document that the EU has with such a large number of countries.

Commonwealth

The modern Commonwealth is a voluntary association of 53 independent member countries. Membership is diverse and includes developed and developing countries in Africa, Asia, the Americas, the Caribbean, Europe and the South Pacific. Since rejoining the Commonwealth in 1994, South Africa has interacted closely with the work of the Commonwealth, contributing politically, financially and in terms of capacity and expertise to the work of the organisation.

In March 2021, South Africa joined other member states in celebrating Commonwealth Day. It was held under the theme; “Delivering a Common Future: Connecting, Innovating, Transforming.”

As a member of the Commonwealth, South Africa cooperates with the organisation’s family of nations to create better life for its citizens through economic transformation and collaboration in the fields of education and skills development, women and youth empowerment, technology and innovation, the Blue Economy, as well as trade and investment. Therefore, the 2020 theme spoke directly to South Africa’s NDP, the AU’s Agenda 2063 and the UN’s Agenda 2063, which aim to create a prosperous world, based on inclusive growth and sustainable development.

South Africa remains an active member of the organisation and attends all high-level meetings, including the Commonwealth Foreign Affairs Ministers Meeting and the biannual Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM).

Since the establishment of the Commonwealth on 26 April 1949, the relevance and value of this organisation have increased as the number of members grew from eight countries in 1949 to 54 in 2020 and with a membership of around 2.4 billion people from developed and developing countries in Africa, Asia, the Americas, the Caribbean, Europe and the South Pacific. Members work together to pursue common goals to promote a fairer, prosperous, sustainable and secure future.

As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, the 26th CHOGM, which was scheduled to take place in Kigali, Rwanda on 26 and 27 June 2020 was postponed to 25 and 26 June 2021. The meeting was postponed for the second time to a date yet to be announced.

Non-Aligned Movement

With its 120-member states, the NAM is the largest grouping of countries outside of the UN, making it an important role player in global and multilateral affairs. Since its inception in 1961, the movement has played a crucial and highly visible political role in representing the interests of developing countries, particularly in the eradication of colonialism, supporting struggles for liberation and self-determination, the pursuit of world peace and the search for a more equitable and just global order. The NAM remains an important role player in the multilateral system and continues to play an active role on issues pertaining to development, UN reform, disarmament, human rights, peacekeeping and peacebuilding, amongst others.

The Azerbaijan took over the Chairship of the NAM at the 18th NAM Summit in Baku. The chairship of Azerbaijan coincides with the 65th anniversary of Bandung Principles (2020) and the 60th anniversary of the establishment of NAM (2021). Both anniversaries provide a momentum for the NAM member states to take stock of the achievements made so far and reflect upon how shared vision and combined strength could respond to the multifaceted and emerging challenges that the world continues to face.

A virtual NAM Mid-term Ministerial Conference was held from 13 – 14 July 2021, to discuss developments and actions taken since the 18th NAM Summit in 2019. It will be Africa’s turn to chair the NAM in 2022. In this regard, Uganda has been endorsed as the incoming Chair of the NAM. The 19th Summit of the NAM is expected to take place in Kampala, Uganda in 2022.

Group of 77 (G77)

The G77 was established on 15 June 1964 by 77 developing countries signatories of the Joint Declaration of the Seventy-Seven Developing Countries issued at the end of the first session of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), in Geneva, Switzerland. Beginning with the first Ministerial Meeting of the Group 77 in Algiers (Algeria) from 10 to 25 October 1967, which adopted the Charter of Algiers, a permanent institutional structure gradually developed, which led to the creation of chapters of the G77 with liaison offices in Geneva (Conference on Trade and Development), Nairobi (United Nations Environment Programme), Paris (UNESCO), Rome (Food and Agriculture Organization/International Fund for Agricultural Development), Vienna (United Nations Industrial Development Organization) and the Group of 24 in Washington, DC (International Monetary Fund and World Bank). Although members of the G77 have increased to 134 countries, the original name was retained due to its historic significance.

The G77 is the largest intergovernmental organisation of developing countries in the UN. It provides the means for the countries of the South to articulate and promote their collective economic interests and enhance their joint negotiating capacity on all major international economic issues within the UN system, and promotes South-South cooperation for development.

The functioning and operating modalities of the work of the G77 in the various chapters have certain minimal features in common such as a similarity in membership, decision-making and certain operating methods. A chairperson, who acts as its spokesperson, coordinates the group’s action in each chapter. The Chairship, which is the highest political body within the organisational structure of the G77, rotates on a regional basis (between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean) and is held for one year in all the chapters. Guinea was the Chair of the G77 for 2021.

South Africa chaired the G77 in 2006 and 2015. Significant during South Africa’s chairing of the G77 was the adoption of the landmark 2030 Agenda for SDGs, which builds on the Millennium Development Goals and sets the global development trajectory until 2030. As Chair of the G77, South Africa successfully carried out its mandate to ensure that positions of developing countries were advanced.

Additionally, during South Africa’s chairing of the group, developing countries were able to influence the outcomes of the Paris Climate Change negotiations, and international outcomes on development financing.

The South Summit is the supreme decision-making body of the G77. The first and the second summits were held in Havana, Cuba in April 2000 and in Doha, Qatar in June 2005, respectively. In accordance with the principle of geographical rotation, the Third South Summit will be held in Africa. The event which was expected to be held in Uganda in April 2020 was postponed and new date will be communicated.

The Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs of the G77 is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the UNGA in New York.

West Africa

Senegal

Senegal and South Africa are bound by their historic ties of friendship that were established during the Struggle against colonialism and apartheid. Full diplomatic relations were established in May 1994.

Senegal is a bastion of stability in Francophone West Africa. It is a strong constitutional democracy and one of the only African countries that have never experienced a coup d'état or any type of violent transition since its independence from France in 1960.

South Africa and Senegal enjoy cordial bilateral political, economic and social relations underpinned by strong historical ties dating back to the years of the liberation Struggle.

The Dakar Talks are widely considered to have paved the way towards a negotiated settlement between the African National Congress and the then government of South Africa.

South Africa and Senegal conduct their bilateral relations through a Joint Commission for Bilateral Cooperation.

Mali

South Africa and Mali established bilateral relations in May 1994. Bilateral relations between the two countries are conducted through the Joint Commission for Cooperation (JCC) signed in December 2000.

South Africa assisted the government of Mali in the preservation of the Ahmed Baba Institute of Higher Learning and Islamic Research in Timbuktu through a contribution to the ARF.

Peace, security and stability remain a challenge in Northern and Central Mali. South Africa supports the current peace process in Mali and encourages all parties involved to remain committed to the implementation of the Peace Agreement in an effort to ensure lasting peace.

The Gambia

South Africa and The Gambia established formal diplomatic relations in August 1998. The South African Ambassador in Dakar, Senegal, is accredited to The Gambia on a non-residential basis.

Guinea-Bissau

South Africa and Guinea-Bissau established formal diplomatic relations in October 1994, even though the relations between the two countries date back to the common struggle against apartheid and colonialism.

Cabo Verde

South Africa and Cabo Verde exchanged notes to establish diplomatic relations in 1994, followed by the signing of the Agreement on the Establishment of a Mechanism for Bilateral Consultation during an AU summit in 2015.

Liberia

Formal diplomatic relations between South Africa and Liberia were established in 1997. The Liberian government opened its embassy in Pretoria in October 1997, while South Africa opened a resident diplomatic mission in Monrovia in October 2010.

South Africa and Liberia maintain good diplomatic and political relations since the attainment of freedom and democracy in South Africa. South Africa and Liberia signed an Agreement on Visa Exemption for Holders of Diplomatic and Official Passports in May 2018. The two countries have also, since the establishment of diplomatic relations, signed a General Cooperation Agreement and an MoU on Economic and Technical Cooperation.

These agreements allow the two countries to engage on a number of areas of possible cooperation, including agriculture, energy, infrastructure development, capacity, institutional building, trade and the health sector.

Sierra Leone

Diplomatic relations between South Africa and Sierra Leone were established in 1998 through the exchange of diplomatic notes.

Niger

Diplomatic relations were established in May 1994. In March 2008 South Africa opened an embassy in Niamey, headed by a Chargé d'Affaires. Niger opened its embassy in Pretoria during the last quarter of 2012.

An agreement on the establishment of a JCC was concluded on 8 May 2007 and the inaugural session of the commission took place in October 2013.

In May 2021, the DIRCO announced that it had taken a decision to shut down 10 diplomatic missions abroad. This was in response to the country's fiscal constraints, exacerbated by the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The missions, which include embassies, high commissions and consulates, were expected to be closed systematically during the 2021/22 financial year. Missions earmarked for closure included Minsk, Belarus; Port of Spain, Trinidad and Tobago; The Holy See, The Vatican; Helsinki, Finland; Milan, Italy (consulate); Muscat, Oman; Suva, Fiji; Bucharest, Romania; Lima, Peru and Chicago, United States America (USA) (consulate).

Government has assured South African citizens resident abroad, businesses and tourists of a smooth transfer of civic and immigration services to non-resident missions. Stakeholders are advised to check with the affected embassies and consulates-general on the exact dates of termination of services.

Further announcements of the transfer of civic and immigration services would be made on the websites of the DIRCO, the Department of Home Affairs and the affected missions.

Côte d'Ivoire

Diplomatic relations between South Africa and Côte d'Ivoire were established in May 1992. The Agreement on the Establishment of a JCC was concluded in December 2015.

At a political level, given South Africa's firm commitment to the African Renaissance and its attendant features of stability and democratisation on the continent, the country previously played an important role in assisting to find a peaceful resolution to the stalemate that followed the disputed Presidential Elections in Côte d'Ivoire.

Bilateral trade between South Africa and Côte d'Ivoire has experienced an upward trend. South African investors are present in the banking, transport and telecommunications sectors.

Nigeria

As the continent's two largest economies, South Africa and Nigeria enjoy good political, economic and social bilateral relations formally established in 1994, immediately after South Africa's first democratic elections.

Formal relations between the two countries have been conducted through the Binational Commission (BNC), established in 1999 as a structured bilateral mechanism to promote political, economic, social, cultural, scientific and technical cooperation between the two countries.

Through eight successful biennial sessions over the years, the BNC has deepened and solidified the relations between the two countries, and laid the foundation for increased bilateral political and economic cooperation.

There are a number of signed bilateral agreements between the two countries, which cover various areas such as arts and culture, education, agriculture, trade and investment, mining, defence, policing, immigration, taxation, science and technology, health, tourism, environment and energy.

There are over 120 South African companies currently doing business in Nigeria in various sectors, mainly in telecommunications, banking, retail, hospitality, mining, tourism, agriculture and construction. They include MTN, Multichoice, Stanbic Bank, Shoprite Checkers, South African Airways, Sasol and Bon Hotels.

Ghana

South Africa and Ghana established a permanent JCC in May 2007, as a structured bilateral mechanism to provide for political, economic, social, cultural, scientific and technical cooperation between the two countries. In 2018, the commission was elevated to become a BNC at the Presidential Level.

The permanent JCC essentially oversees the implementation of more than 20 bilateral agreements and memoranda of understanding, which cover various fields, including trade and investment, avoidance of double taxation, information and communication, transport, electricity, oil and gas, tourism, environment, science and technology, and arts and culture.

The majority of the South African investment projects are in the services sector with a total of over 100 projects valued at over US$780 million. Other sectors that South Africa has invested in include agriculture, building and construction, manufacturing and tourism.

Benin

South Africa and Benin established formal diplomatic relations in May 1994. South Africa opened an embassy in Cotonou in 2007, and Benin opened its embassy in Pretoria in January 1999.

The Agreement for the Establishment of a JCC was concluded on 14 June 2015.

Burkina Faso

Diplomatic relations between South Africa and Burkina Faso were established in May 1995. South Africa has had an embassy in Ouagadougou since February 2007, and Burkina opened an embassy in Pretoria in June 2007. An agreement to establish a JCC was concluded in April 2007.

South Africa and Burkina Faso work closely through regional bodies, the SADC and the Economic Community of West African States, as well as the AU, to address all challenges that hinder Africa's development and to ensure that the set objectives in relation to the Agenda 2063 are achieved without fail.

Togo

Relations between South Africa and Togo were established in 1997. The South African Ambassador in Benin is accredited to Togo on a non-residential basis. South Africa and Togo are currently negotiating a framework agreement for cooperation.

The agreement will establish cooperation in a number of fields, including agro-processing, port management, mining and energy. Nedbank and the Public Investment Corporation are the second- and third-largest shareholders, respectively, in the Lomé head-quartered West African Bank, Ecobank.

East Africa

Burundi

South Africa's relations with Burundi are sound and cordial. South Africa participated as the mediator in the AU-led Burundi Peace Process, which was first led by former President Mandela, followed by former President Thabo Mbeki and by then Deputy President Jacob Zuma. The process led to the Arusha Peace Accords in 2000 – 2005, that brought an end to the long civil war.

South Africa has invested significantly in Burundi's peace and stability and it closely follows developments in Burundi, a small but key role player in the Great Lakes region.

Peace and stability in Burundi are seen as crucial factors to the achievement of peace in the entire region. South Africa is ready to assist and support the mediation process, if and when it is called upon. The country continues to stand by the people of Burundi in their search for sustainable peace, security and development.

Djibouti

South Africa and Djibouti enjoy excellent relations. Current infrastructure development programmes, including free development zones, provide fertile ground for active investment by South African companies.

Eritrea

Eritrea serves as one of the fastest-growing economies in the Horn of Africa with a GDP growth rate of 8.5%. The country is rich in mineral resources, including copper, gold, granite, marble, oil and gas reserves. The promotion of trade and investment between South Africa and Eritrea is important, especially in the fields of tourism and infrastructure development.

Ethiopia

Bilateral economic relations with Ethiopia, which were revived in 1995 when South Africa opened an embassy in Addis Ababa, remain strong.

The two countries have a number of bilateral agreements in place that establish a regulatory framework to facilitate political, economic and social interaction such as an agreement on the avoidance of double taxation. The umbrella agreement provides for the establishment of a Joint Ministerial Commission (JMC).

Ethiopian Prime Minister Abiy Ahmed Ali visited South Africa on 11 and 12 January 2020 for bilateral discussions on matters of mutual national development, regional and continental issues as well as international developments.

The objectives of the visit were to further strengthen and deepen bilateral relations and cooperation between the two nations and to consolidate political, economic and social cooperation. The visit also explored potential areas of trade and investment for the benefit of both countries in industries such as telecommunications, road infrastructure, mining, agro-processing and manufacturing.

Indian Ocean Islands

South Africa's political, economic and diplomatic relations with the Comoros, Madagascar, Mauritius and Seychelles remain strong.

Greater emphasis is being placed, in terms of South Africa's Operation Phakisa, on building partnerships with the islands in respect of the Oceans Economy to enhance trade and investment in areas such as marine manufacturing and transport; aquaculture; offshore oil and gas exploration; and marine protection and governance.

South Africa and Seychelles established formal relations in 1992. The relationship has been progressive, with a display of support for strategic tourism events hosted in each country and a shared vision for regional tourism development and integration.

Madagascar

Madagascar and South Africa have strong bilateral relations and currently have an MoU on Regular Diplomatic Consultations, covering various areas of cooperation such as political, security, economic and social issues of mutual interest.

Kenya

South Africa and Kenya enjoy strong bilateral relations, with the two countries' Heads of State meeting on the margins of various international and multilateral engagements to discuss matters of mutual interest.

South Africa and Kenya enjoy cordial relations since the signing of a bilateral agreement in 2004, which was implemented by the then Department of Science and Technology and Kenya's Ministry of Education, National Commission for Science, Technology and Innovation.

Rwanda

Since the establishment of diplomatic relations in 1995 between South Africa and Rwanda, the two countries continue to have close interaction at a High Political Level.

Rwanda is an important partner in the advancement and the championing of the African Agenda, by being among the first countries to volunteer for the APRM and actively contributing troops to African peacekeeping missions in Sudan and the CAR.

South Africa and Rwanda have signed over 20 bilateral agreements in various fields and continue to enjoy cordial relations.

Sudan

Relations between South Africa and Sudan remain cordial. South Africa is also playing a key role in the resolution of conflicts and the post-conflict reconstruction efforts in that country. Moreover, Sudan serves among key African countries with the potential for increased trade and investment.

South Sudan

In January 2020, South Sudanese President Gen Salva Kiir Mayardit visited South Africa. The working visit afforded the countries an opportunity to discuss progress made thus far, in relation to the implementation of the R-ARCSS. In this context, Deputy President Mabuza, in his capacity as the Special Envoy of President Ramaphosa to the South Sudan, has been co-facilitating a series of meetings of the parties to the R-ARCSS in conjunction with the Intergovernmental Authority on Development.

The focus of these consultative meetings has largely been on the resolution of the number of states and their boundaries, as one of sticking points towards the formation of the Revitalised Transitional Government of National Unity (RTGoNU). South Africa will continue to support, and remains committed to the South Sudanese Peace Process in its entirety, and stands in solidarity with the people of South Sudan in their quest to ultimately find lasting peace. South Africa will continue to encourage all relevant stakeholders to adhere to all the pre-transitional requirements and fully implement the R-ARCSS. South Africa remains confident that the parties will find common ground to form the RTGoNU.

Bilateral relations between the two countries are conducted under the General Cooperation Agreement of 21 September 2011, which entails the following areas of cooperation: agriculture/agri-business, water, education, infrastructure development, transport, mining, energy, electricity, oil and gas.

Uganda

South Africa and Uganda have enjoyed good political and economic relations since 1994. The relations were cemented when the South Africa-Uganda JCC was inaugurated in Pretoria in November 2012.

The two countries continue to cooperate closely and coordinate their positions on issues in a number of regional and multilateral forums, such as the AU and the UN, and share similar perspectives, particularly on the political and economic integration processes on the African continent.

North and Central Africa

Egypt

South Africa and Egypt have a Joint Bilateral Commission (JBC), convened at Ministerial Level, for enhancing and strengthening bilateral relations.

South Africa is committed to forging closer strategic cooperation with Egypt, focusing in particular on economic and security cooperation, and to continue working together in pursuance of continental integration, peace and security as well as the fight against all forms of terrorism and extremism.

Libya

South Africa is deeply concerned over the prevailing political and security situation in Libya, which has gravely affected peace and security in the region.

At the same time, South Africa has noted, with satisfaction, the positive developments regarding the UN Political Agreement to establish a government of national accord in Libya.

In this regard, South Africa has urged the Libyan people and its leaders to set aside their differences and unite in the interest of peace, stability and prosperity in Libya. Further, South Africa is ready to assist the Libyan people by sharing her experiences on democratic transition and reconciliation.

Algeria

South Africa enjoys historic and cordial relations with Algeria and regards it as a strategic partner in the region and continent.

Since the establishment of the Presidential BNC in 2000, bilateral political trade and economic links have been growing steadily.

Algeria's relations with countries of the Maghreb, the Mediterranean, the Arab Peninsular and the Sahel regions serves as a platform to promote joint Algeria-South Africa partnerships/ventures in the mutual interest of all parties.

Morocco

South Africa and Morocco enjoy cordial diplomatic relations. Morocco recalled its Ambassador to South Africa in 2004, following South Africa's recognition of the Saharawi Arab Democratic Republic (SADR). Bilateral relations have since been maintained at the level of a Chargé d'Affaires en titre (Morocco) and Chargé d'Affaires ad interim (South Africa).

Western Sahara is Africa's longest-running territorial dispute and an issue of continental and international law and diplomatic controversy, having been on the decolonisation agenda of the UN and AU for more than 50 years.

Morocco contends that the Western Sahara, a former Spanish colony, is an integral part of its kingdom. On the other side, the Polisario Front, which is campaigning for the territory's independence, demands a referendum on self-determination.

The SADR is a full member of the AU, while Morocco withdrew from the then OAU, in protest at the SADR's inclusion. Morocco was re-admitted as a member of the AU in 2017. Throughout the years, Pretoria has maintained the same position on the right to self-determination for the Saharawi people, as enshrined in the UN Charter and the AU Constitutive Act.

Western Sahara

Formal diplomatic relations were established at Ambassador Level in 2004. South Africa continues to render political support and humanitarian assistance to the SADR. Through the ARF, South Africa supports projects that aim to benefit the Saharawi population.

South Africa's international solidarity and support for the self-determination of Western Sahara is based on:

- the principles of multilateralism and international legality in seeking a just, lasting and mutually acceptable political solution, which will provide for the self-determination of the people of Western Sahara;
- the centrality of the AU and UN in the resolution of the conflict;
- the Constitutive Act of the AU, in particular the principle of the sanctity of inherited colonial borders in Africa and the right of peoples of former colonial territories to self-determination and independence;

- respect for international human rights law in the occupied territories, notably the right to freedom of association, assembly, movement and expression;
- respect for international humanitarian law and support for the provision of humanitarian assistance to the Saharawi refugees in a way that is predictable, sustainable and timely;
- an end to the illegal exploration and exploitation of the natural resources of Western Sahara in the illegally occupied territory and the discouragement of the involvement of foreign companies in such activities; and
- support for the integration and stability of the Maghreb Union as a building block of the AU.

Mauritania

South Africa made a constructive contribution in Mauritania in support of the implementation of the democratic road map undertaken by the military transitional government, following the coup d'état of August 2005.

These efforts contributed to the restoration of constitutional order and stability in Mauritania, leading to South Africa's support for the lifting of the AU suspension of the country in April 2007. In terms of economic relations, progress has been recorded between the two countries in the areas of fisheries and mining.

Tunisia

The South African Embassy in Tunisia was officially opened in 1994. South Africa and Tunisia enjoy a very healthy and mutually beneficial political and economic relationship. Relations between the two countries are based on a JBC launched in 1996.

Chad

South Africa and Chad established diplomatic relations in 1994, but it was only in 2013 that both countries appointed resident ambassadors.

Chad is a member of the Economic Community of Central African States, the Community of Sahel-Saharan States (ECCAS), the Group of 5 of the Sahel, the Lake Chad Basin Commission, member and host of the Multi-National Joint Task Force (in the fight against Boko Haram) and is the designated Chair of the ECCAS. In 2017, South Africa signed a Bilateral Air Services Agreement with Chad.

Democratic Republic of São Tomé and Príncipe

Following its independence in 1975, São Tomé and Príncipe expanded its diplomatic relationships. Since the establishment of full diplomatic relations with South Africa in 1994, the relations between the two countries have grown significantly.

Republic of the Congo

Bilateral cooperation between the two countries takes place within the framework of an agreement signed in 2003, which established a JCC. The deepening of bilateral relations between the two countries have seen the signing of a number of agreements.

The Joint Trade Committee (JTC) is playing an important role in facilitating trade and investment. .

Equatorial Guinea

South Africa and Equatorial Guinea enjoy cordial relations that were formally established in 1993. The two countries have entered into a number of bilateral cooperation agreements, including a General Cooperation Agreement and two agreements on defence cooperation. The two countries are also formulating draft agreements to enhance cooperation in education and energy.

South Africa and Equatorial Guinea serve as non-permanent members of the UNSC, and have committed themselves to work together to champion Africa's quest for peace and stability in line with the collective vision encapsulated in the AU's Agenda 2063.

Cameroon

South Africa and Cameroon enjoy cordial bilateral relations. Cameroon is the economic hub of the CAR. The seaport of Doualla in Cameroon is used to import goods to landlocked countries in the region, including Chad and the CAR.

Central African Republic

South Africa opened its embassy in Bangui in 2017 and the two countries enjoy cordial relations.

Southern Africa Angola

South Africa and Angola continue to work together in maintaining peace, stability and regional integration and promoting the SADC Agenda.

Angola is one of South Africa's major trading partners in Africa with almost 90% of Angolan exports to South Africa being petroleum-related products.

Namibia

South Africa and Namibia enjoy strong and fraternal relations that are characterised by regular and increasing interaction at all levels. The economies of South Africa and Namibia are interlinked, with South Africa being one of Namibia's major trading partners.

Namibia imports 80% of its consumables from South Africa. South African companies have a large presence in Namibia and are involved in various sectors such as housing, food and beverages, construction, hotels and leisure, banking and medical services.

South Africa and Namibia have an agreement to work together in various matters within the fisheries space as both countries share a common border. This means that there is transboundary of fishing species in both countries and co-management between the two countries has always been important.

South Africa, Namibia and Angola share one of the most productive Benguela Current Large Marine Ecosystem (BCLME). The collaboration of the three countries is historic, where international partners have funded a number of significant projects in the BCLME region. The collaboration was later formalised through the Benguela Current Commission, now ratified into a convention.

Lesotho

South Africa's bilateral relations with Lesotho remain strong and are based on a shared language, history and culture. Lesotho is landlocked in South Africa, creating a unique dependence. South Africa supplies nearly 90% of Lesotho's total imports and is critical to the economic success of the kingdom.

The strong cooperation that exists between the two countries cover a wide range of areas such as the Lesotho Highlands Water Project, the Metolong Dam Project and the revamping and upgrading of the Mokhotlong road and the Maloti-Drakensberg Transfrontier.

Eswatini

Bilateral relations between South Africa and Eswatini, reflected in the JBC for Cooperation Agreement, are amiable and informed essentially by historical and cultural affinities, including the geographical proximity between people of the two countries.

Zambia

South Africa and Zambia maintain solid economic cooperation as evidenced by the presence of several South African companies in Zambia.

Improved cooperation in a variety of areas such as air services and infrastructural development present economic opportunities to the South African private sector and parastatals. South Africa and Zambia continue to work together on the region's common agenda relating to, among others, peace, security and economic integration.

Structured bilateral cooperation between South Africa and Zambia formerly took place under the framework of a JCC that was signed in October 2005.

Democratic Republic of Congo

South Africa and the DRC maintain good diplomatic and political relations. The highest expression of the quality and significance of these diplomatic relations is the annual BNC, co-chaired by the Heads of State.

The General Cooperation Agreement, signed by South Africa and the DRC in January 2004, is the principal agreement establishing bilateral cooperation between the two states in the form of a BNC, which provides the basis for political, economic and technical cooperation.

Zimbabwe

South Africa and Zimbabwe enjoy historic political and fraternal relations which also incorporate regional affiliation and cultural ties. Zimbabwe is one of South Africa's main trade partners in Africa and several South African companies operate in Zimbabwe in sectors such as mining, tourism, agriculture, banking, manufacturing and retail.

Relations between South Africa and Zimbabwe are conducted through a BNC that was established in 2015. The two countries are signatories to 45 agreements, which cover a wide-range of fields, including trade and investment, health, labour, migration, defence, taxation, tourism, scientific and technological cooperation, water and the environment.

Malawi

South Africa and Malawi enjoy cordial and fraternal bilateral relations inclusive of political, economic and cultural relations and within the context of regional integration and intra-Africa trade. These bilateral relations are conducted under the framework of a JCC.

Mozambique

In September 2020, South Africa and Mozambique held a two-day virtual Trade and Investment webinar under the theme; "Developing Afrocentric Solutions and Forging Partnership in Response to COVID-19". Trade, Industry and Competition Deputy Minister Nomalungelo Gina and Mozambique Deputy Minister of Commerce and Industry, Ludovina Bernardo, addressed the virtual seminar. The meeting focused on trade and investment opportunities available in Mozambique and discussed strategic issues regarding Mozambique's investment plans to stimulate the country's economic growth amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

It was a build up on previous Outward Trade and Investment Missions held in Mozambique, which yielded significant results in terms of exposing South African companies to the Mozambican market, creating greater knowledge of South African capabilities, improving awareness of investment and trade opportunities.

The composition of South African exports to Mozambique include, amongst others, mineral products, machinery and mechanical appliances, base metals and articles of base metal, prepared foodstuffs, vehicles, aircraft, vessels and associated transport equipment and vegetable products. The basket of South African exports to Mozambique is made up of value added goods.

In May 2021, Cabinet expressed its continued concern about the situation in Mozambique and continued to monitor developments. It offered full support to efforts of the SADC to bring about lasting peace and security, as well as reconciliation and development in Mozambique. This followed attacks in the country's Cabo Delgado Province, which left dozens murdered and thousands displaced.

Tanzania

Bilateral relations have been characterised by high-level interactions between the two countries aimed at consolidating and strengthening political, economic and social cooperation.

Economic relations between South Africa and Tanzania have, since 1994, grown significantly and continue to expand. The two countries have elevated their bilateral relations by signing a BNC Agreement in 2011, thus increasing the scope of areas of cooperation.

Botswana

South Africa and Botswana cooperate in a wide range of areas, including transport, trade and investment, health, education, environmental affairs, water, science and technology, agriculture, justice, immigration, energy, finance, culture, security and sport.

Relations with Asia and the Middle East

The People's Republic of China

South Africa and China first established formal ties in January 1998. Since then, the two countries have achieved a significant number of bilateral cooperation agreements in areas such as trade, investment, tourism, economic and people-to-people relations, oceans and coastal environment, as well as the environment.

South Africa and China share mutual aspirations in promoting economic growth, development and prosperity, and South-South cooperation, as well as a rules-based international order based on the principle of internationalism, and enjoy strong diplomatic and trade relations. China is South Africa's biggest trading partner and the second-biggest economy in the world.

The two countries share membership of, and participate as partners in numerous international bodies, including BRICS, the G77 and the G20. South Africa's bilateral relations with China are guided broadly through mechanisms such as the Beijing Declaration, establishing the Comprehensive Strategic Partnership, the BNC, the Joint Inter-Ministerial Working Group (JWG) on Cooperation, the Strategic Dialogue Mechanism and the Five to 10-Year Strategic Framework on Cooperation, signed in 2014. The latter was replaced by the 10-Year Strategic Programme for Cooperation (2020 – 2029).

South Africa-China bilateral relations have grown from a partnership to a strategic partnership, and subsequently to a comprehensive strategic partnership, which the 10-Year Strategic Programme of Cooperation will bolster.

South Africa and China have committed to building, developing and strengthening relations based on shared principles of friendship and mutual trust; equality and mutual benefit; coordination; mutual learning; and working together for development. Bilateral relations are managed through structured mechanisms, including the BNC, the JWG on Cooperation and the Strategic Dialogue. These mechanisms are chaired at the level of Deputy President, Minister and Deputy Minister, respectively.

Both countries continue to improve the structure of bilateral trade by encouraging trade in high value-added manufactured goods, especially from South Africa, and increasing China's investment in the country, particularly in infrastructure development, science and technology, health, higher education, and digital communications. South Africa and China will continue to deepen their cooperation in infrastructure development, including the construction of roads, railways, ports, power plants, airports, and housing, as this has the potential to contribute towards South Africa's economic growth by way of strengthening production and transport capacity. It should be noted that the current bilateral trade volume is skewed in favour of China and, through numerous high-level engagements, the leaders have sought to redress the trade deficit through signing of agreements and MoUs, providing further opportunities for increased exports to China.

South Africa and China co-chaired the Seventh South Africa-China BNC. The objective was to exchange views and assess the state of bilateral relations within the framework of the BNC. It is envisaged that the Eighth Session of the South Africa-China BNC will take place in 2022. Despite the COVID-19 pandemic, South Africa and China's relations have remained strong, reflecting the commitment by the two countries to the partnership.

On the economic front, South Africa and China also enjoy strong relations. South Africa remains China's number one trading partner in Africa. The two countries have implemented various mechanisms aimed at addressing the trade imbalance. Following the successful opening of the Chinese market for exports of South African wine and beef, the market access for various fruit and dairy products are now being negotiated.

As a sign of the strong relations between the two countries, South Africa donated medical supplies to China to assist its citizens in its fight against the COVID-19 pandemic. The donations were warmly accepted. Furthermore, China facilitated the successful repatriation of 114 South African citizens from Wuhan City in Hubei province, the epicentre of the outbreak. China has also donated medical supplies and pledged financial assistance to South Africa in addressing the challenges posed by the pandemic and has indicated its willingness to cooperate with South Africa in terms of the production of a viable vaccine and to share research in this regard.

Japan

South Africa and Japan enjoy well-established relations, which are particularly strong in the fields of trade and investment; science and technology cooperation; and skills or capacity development assistance. Since 2010, the relations have been upgraded to a Strategic Cooperation Partnership. Japan is a major investor into the South African economy – there are currently over 160 Japanese companies in South Africa, sustaining over 150 000 local job opportunities.

Recent investments by Japan include R4.28 billion by Toyota; R3.2 billion by Nissan and R1.2 billion by Isuzu. Other new investments were made by, among others, Sumitomo Rubber, Komatsu, Kansai Paint, NEC, Lixel, Nomura Investment and Tokyo Marine.

In 2020, exports from South Africa to Japan amounted to R62.1 billion and imports from Japan were R31.2 billion. South Africa's total volume of trade with Japan decreased from R102.6 billion in 2019 to R93.4 billion in 2020, while the trade balance, which remained in South Africa's favour, increased from R21.6 billion to R30.8 billion. In 2020, South Africa exported mainly precious metals, minerals, as well as iron and steel products to Japan, while importing machinery, vehicles, aircraft or vessels and equipment components.

South Africa benefits from high-quality Japanese training and skills development opportunities, such as the African Business Education initiative at Master's and PhD degree levels (linked to internships at Japanese multinational companies); and a specialised artisans training programme at two local Technical, Vocational Education and Training institutions (Tshwane South in Gauteng and North-link in the Western Cape), focussing on the automotive and energy sectors, respectively.

The Seventh Joint Committee Meeting on Science and Technology Cooperation between South Africa and Japan, which oversees bilateral cooperation, funding and academic exchanges within the framework of the South Africa-Japan University Forum, took place in Pretoria in January 2020, as per the two countries' annual work programme.

Japan's Foreign Minister Toshimitsu Motegi paid a visit to South Africa in December 2020, during which several bilateral and multilateral issues of mutual interest were discussed. The next TICAD Summit – a strategic partnership between Africa and Japan that was launched in 1993 with a view to serve as a consultative forum for the development of Africa, is scheduled to be held in Tunisia in 2022.

Republic of Korea (ROK)

Increasingly, the focus of the bilateral relationship between South Africa and the ROK is on trade and investment links, as the latter houses some of the world's leading companies such as Hyundai, Samsung, KIA, Daewoo and LG, which have been sources of investment into the South African economy.

The ROK is South Africa's fourth-largest trading partner in Asia. In 2020, exports from South Africa to the ROK amounted to R23.2 billion, while imports from the ROK were R11.1 billion. South Africa's total volume of trade with the ROK thus stood at R34.3 billion, with the trade balance in South Africa's favour by R12.1 billion. South Africa exported mainly mineral products and vehicles, aircraft or vessels, as well as iron and steel products to the ROK, while importing plastics and rubber, machinery and vehicles, aircrafts or vessels. There are approximately 30 ROK companies in South Africa, with investments in automotive manufacturing, electronics, energy, construction, cosmetics, and shipping sectors, among others.

Formally, South Africa-ROK bilateral relations are conducted within the framework of a JCC, co-chaired at Ministerial Level.

Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK)

Due to the imposition of various UNSC sanctions against the DPRK, as a consequence of the country's controversial nuclear weapons and missile programmes, economic relations with South Africa remain limited.

South Africa had been encouraged by efforts to promote peace, direct contact and dialogue between the two Koreas and other stakeholders to ensure holistic and durable political solutions to regional security tensions. South Africa will continue to support all such peace initiatives, including efforts to an eventual denuclearised Korean Peninsula.

South Africa has consistently called for the denuclearisation of the Korean Peninsula, as it firmly believes that nuclear weapons and the pursuance of such capabilities do not enhance security, but rather constitute a source of regional and international insecurity.

Mongolia

The Mongolian Embassy in Egypt is accredited to South Africa, while South Africa's Embassy in Beijing is accredited to Mongolia.

South Africa and Mongolia held their bilateral political consultation in Pretoria in January 2020, to discuss relations, opportunities for expanding economic cooperation in mining, agriculture, education and culture sectors, as well as regional and international issues of common interest.

Mongolia's mining sector and its vast coal reserves potentially offer an opportunity for collaboration with South Africa, especially in terms of clean coal technologies. Mongolia's remoteness from South Africa as a landlocked country surrounded by China and Russia, probably contributed to exports from South Africa to Mongolia in 2020 only amounting to R28.2 million, while imports from Mongolia stood at R554 686.

South and Central Asia

Central Asia

The South African Ambassador to Kazakhstan is accredited to Tajikistan, Turkmenistan and Kyrgyzstan, while the South African Ambassador in Turkey is accredited to Uzbekistan, both on a non-residential basis. Tajikistan's Ambassador to Egypt and Kyrgyzstan's Ambassador in Saudi Arabia are accredited on a non-residential basis to South Africa.

Kazakhstan

Bilateral relations between the two countries are cordial and are conducted under the umbrella of the structured Protocol on Regular Political Consultations, signed in 1997 and co-chaired at the level of Deputy Minister.

The Bilateral Political Consultation serves to explore opportunities to strengthen bilateral relations between South Africa and Kazakhstan focusing on trade and investment, skills exchange and academic cooperation and to build on existing cooperation at various levels in the multilateral fora.

The sixth round of Bilateral Political Consultations reviewed progress made since the previous round and the consultations further explored closer cooperation in the fields of education and skills exchange, science and technology, mining, agriculture and energy to encourage the expansion of economic cooperation. The seventh round of consultations will be held in Nur-Sultan when travel restrictions are eased.

Bilateral agreements in a variety of fields, including trade and economic cooperation, immigration and justice are currently under consideration and are being finalised.

South Asia

South Africa's economic strategy in South Asia is strongly focused on deepening trade and investment linkages, particularly with countries that offer potential for future growth, and where synergies and complementarities in products and technologies exist.

South Africa enjoys cordial relations with India, Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Nepal, Afghanistan and the Maldives.

India

The strategic partnership between South Africa and India is anchored by a deep and shared history of friendship and solidarity. The two countries share a common vision on a range of global issues and closely cooperate in various multilateral fora. Close cooperation occurs within plurilateral and multilateral groupings such as BRICS, IBSA, IORA and the G20. Formal bilateral relations are structured through a JMC and Foreign Office Consultations (FOC) that are held at Senior Official Level.

In January 2020, South Africa co-chaired the 10th South Africa-India JMC. Progress was recorded in a number of areas, including an agreement to conclude an MoU in the area of water and sanitation, engaging with India on increased market access for South African products and an agreement by India to consider customised training courses for South African civil servants under the Indian Technical and Economic Cooperation Programme.

To ensure continued growth of the bilateral relationship, it was also agreed that there would be regular meetings between representatives of the respective high commissions and foreign ministries. These meetings will serve as a vehicle to exchange views on issues of mutual concern, both bilaterally and multilaterally. The 11th edition of the JMC is expected to be hosted in South Africa in 2022.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, total trade between the two countries went down from R121 billion in 2019 to R108 billion in 2020.

Pakistan

Relations between South Africa and Pakistan are structured through a Joint Commission (JC), which provides a formal platform for structured bilateral discussions between the two countries. Bilateral trade has shown impressive growth, but slowed down to R14 billion in 2020, compared to 2019 when it reached R15 billion.

The trade balance still remained in South Africa's favour. The potential for strengthening cooperation for both countries spans a number of fields, including trade and industry, energy, health, higher education, justice, transport and mining.

Sri Lanka

Bilateral relations between South Africa and Sri Lanka are cordial and conducted under the umbrella of the structured Partnership Forum.

The major exports to Sri Lanka are minerals, primarily coal. Bilateral relations have shown a marked strengthening as a result of growing collaboration over a wide spectrum of activities, most notably tourism, investment, trade, educational exchanges.

Bilateral trade between South Africa and Sri Lanka has grown significantly since the establishment of diplomatic relations, from R184 million in 1994 to R3 billion in 2020, with a trade balance of R2.2 billion in South Africa's favour.

Bangladesh, Nepal and Maldives

The South African High Commissioner in New Delhi, India is accredited to Bangladesh and Nepal on a non-residential basis.

Bangladesh holds large potential for the expansion of trade and economic relations. Over the recent years, bilateral relations between South Africa and Bangladesh have deepened and grown exponentially, with bilateral trade amounting to almost R5 billion in 2020, with a trade balance of R2.01 billion in South Africa's favour.

Bilateral relations with Bangladesh are cordial and conducted under the umbrella of the structured SOM.

Nepal

The South African High Commissioner in New Delhi is accredited non-residentially to Nepal, while Nepal has a resident diplomatic mission in Pretoria. South Africa and Nepal enjoy good bilateral relations, consolidated further through the exchange of high-level bilateral visits. Various visits from Nepal have also focused on learning from the South African model of transitional justice, best practices and good governance.

In an effort to further enhance the strong bilateral relations between the two countries, South Africa and Nepal are near concluding a declaration of intent, which provides for a structured bilateral mechanism at Senior Official Level, through which bilateral relations would be advanced.

Maldives

The South African High Commissioner in Colombo, Sri Lanka, is accredited to the Maldives on a non-residential basis.

While bilateral relations between South Africa and the Maldives are cordial, there is currently no bilateral mechanism in place to advance relations between the two countries.

South-East Asia

The ASEAN is a regional organisation comprising Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar, Thailand, the Philippines, Singapore and Vietnam, aimed at promoting economic growth and regional stability among its member states. Together, the bloc forms the fourth-largest export economy in the world.

South Africa shares full diplomatic bilateral relations with all ASEAN member states. These relations signify and highlight the importance and values of the relationship shared by South Africa and the ASEAN.

Given the ASEAN's expanding economic and geopolitical importance in the 21st century, South Africa has continued to expend major effort into enhancing positive relationships with the association's member nations. In global international relations, the economic and geopolitical profile of Southeast Asia has assumed a remarkable degree of centrality following the success of an increasingly integrated ASEAN in becoming the hub of the emerging regional security architecture of the Asia-Pacific.

As part of efforts to deepen the country's engagement and cooperation with this region, South Africa acceded to the ASEAN TAC in November 2020. While South Africa has diplomatic and economic relations with individual ASEAN members, accession to the TAC is a historic milestone with the ASEAN (as a bloc) and contributes to foster closer and more beneficial economic opportunities.

Thailand

Thailand is South Africa's largest trading partner in the ASEAN. The structured bilateral mechanism through which the two countries optimise existing cooperation is the South Africa-Thailand Senior Official Meeting (SOM). Massive ongoing infrastructure projects in Thailand provides a base for South African exports of machinery, iron ore and steel as well as mineral products. In 2020, total bilateral trade between South Africa and Thailand stood at R40.9 billion.

Malaysia

South Africa's bilateral relations with Malaysia, marked by traditional friendship and cordiality, have continued to progress supported by an active commercial relationship that promotes two-way trade between the countries. Structured bilateral relations are conducted under the umbrella of the FOC mechanism.

In 2020, total bilateral trade between South Africa and Malaysia stood at R18.2 billion. South Africa and Malaysia aim to promote bilateral trade, investment and tourism with potential cooperation in the food sector.

Singapore

South Africa and Singapore enjoy warm and collaborative relations. Bilateral relations are conducted through FOC, which were established in April 2005 and makes provision for regular consultations on issues of mutual interest between the two countries' Ministries of foreign affairs. The complementary strengths of the two economies have facilitated bilateral trade in 2020, which amounted to R14 billion, with exports from Singapore valued at R8 billion and imports to Singapore valued at R6 billion.

Singapore is world renowned as a centre of excellence and it has been particularly supportive in assisting South Africa with skills development under the Singapore Cooperation Programme of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Over 1 500 South African civil servants have participated in training courses in Singapore.

Indonesia

In 2008, South Africa and Indonesia signed the Joint Declaration on a Strategic Partnership for a Peaceful and Prosperous Future, elevating the long-standing relations between the two countries to a strategic level. The bilateral relations between the two countries are managed through a JC and JTC, which were established in 2004 and 2006, respectively.

The total value of bilateral trade for 2020 was R18 billion, with exports to Indonesia valued around R8 billion, while R10 billion worth of goods were imported from Indonesia.

Vietnam

Ties between South Africa and Vietnam have developed and solidified into a multi-faceted relationship with growing cooperation in numerous fields. Bilateral economic relations between the two countries are coordinated through the Partnership Forum for Economic, Trade, Scientific, Technical and Cultural Cooperation, which takes place biennially and is co-chaired at the level of Deputy Ministers.

In 2020, total bilateral trade between South Africa and Vietnam was valued at R23.9 billion, with imports from Vietnam valued at R14.3 billion and exports valued at R9.5 billion.

Philippines

The Philippines is the third-largest economy in the ASEAN after Indonesia and Thailand. As such, South Africa highly values its friendly and robust relations with the Philippines. Bilateral relations between the two countries are coordinated through a Bilateral Consultative Forum, a structured mechanism whereby issues of mutual concern, briefings on domestic and regional developments, as well as exploration of possible fields of cooperation are discussed.

On the economic front, efforts have been undertaken by both countries to enhance bilateral trade, which stood at R3.158 billion in 2020, with exports valued at R923 million and imports at R2.235 billion.

Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Laos and Timor-Leste

South Africa's relations with Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, the Laos and the Timor-Leste are cordial. In 2021, Brunei was chairing the ASEAN with its immediate priority being to drive a cohesive regional response to mitigate the debilitating economic, social and health impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic. The theme of Brunei's ASEAN Chairship was; "We Care, We Prepare, We Prosper," which encapsulates the vision and focus of its term as the ASEAN Chair.

Australasia and the Pacific Islands

Australia

South Africa and Australia enjoy cordial relations and interact biennially through an SOM. South Africa and Australia cooperate across a range of sectors and issues, including law enforcement, sport, tourism, education, defence relations, and science and technology.

Australia is one of South Africa's largest trading partners. Both countries have large, export-oriented resource sectors and sophisticated agriculture and service sectors. Major imports by South Africa from Australia are chemicals, mineral products and machinery. On the other hand, South Africa's exports to Australia are in the main dominated by high-quality passenger motor vehicles, aircraft, vessels, machinery, iron and steel products. Total trade between South Africa and Australia amounted to R24.7 billion in 2020, with the trade balance slightly in favour of South Africa.

New Zealand

At a bilateral level, South Africa and New Zealand enjoy close cooperation in business, tourism, agriculture, disarmament, fisheries, environmental protection, indigenous people and human rights issues.

A significant feature of the South Africa-New Zealand relationship is its sporting ties in rugby, cricket, netball and in recent years, soccer. Relations are coordinated through a biennial SOM. In recognition of existing people-to-people relations, New Zealand citizens can currently enter South Africa visa-free for tourism purposes for a period of 90 days. However, South African citizens still require a visa to enter New Zealand. The two countries work well within the multilateral arena, as evidenced by close cooperation within the UN and the Commonwealth.

New Zealand remains a major commercial partner for South Africa in the Oceania region. In 2020, total bilateral trade was R3.2 billion, with South Africa's trade deficit standing at just over R1 billion. Goods traded between South Africa and New Zealand consist of both primary products, as well as finished goods. The main exports by South Africa are vehicles, aircraft and vessels, chemicals and prepared foodstuff, while the main imports are live animals, machinery, wood, pulp and paper.

Relations with the Middle East

South Africa enjoys strong historical relations with countries of the Middle East, anchored by the strategic objective of strengthening South-South relations.

South Africa has a strong focus on the Gulf region from an economic perspective, given its strategic location and vast energy reserves. Within the political realm, South Africa's engagements have been mainly through diplomatic support for conflict resolution in Syria and Yemen, and contributing towards finding a sustainable resolution to the protracted Israel-Palestine conflict.

Palestine

South Africa and Palestine have enjoyed warm relations since the inception of democracy. Official diplomatic relations between a democratic South Africa and Palestine were established in 1995. Over the last two decades bilateral relations have strengthened with the establishment of a JCC while a Political Consultations Mechanism has further reinforced relations. The overall objectives of these platforms are to monitor and guide the conduct of bilateral relations.

South Africa remains concerned and condemns the continued illegal settlement expansion by Israel, which constitutes a contravention of international law, particularly the Fourth Geneva Convention of 1949. South Africa believes that the only way to bring about lasting peace in the Middle East is to have a two-state solution for Palestine and Israel based on the international recognition and independence of the State of Palestine. This would be based on the 4 June 1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as its capital, functioning within recognised and secure borders and living side-by-side in peace with Israel and its other neighbours, as endorsed in the Quartet Roadmap, the Madrid Principles, the Arab Peace Initiative and the relevant UNSC resolutions.

In May 2021, Cabinet condemned the attacks on Palestinian protesters at Al Aqsa Mosque and the Dome on the Rock and the unlawful evictions of Palestinians from their homes in the Sheikh al Jarrah in the annexed East Jerusalem to make way for Israeli settlements. It noted that Israel's actions were in stark violation of international law, and a total disregard of the UNSC resolutions, including Resolutions 446 (1979) and 2 334 (2016) which explicitly call for an end to Israeli occupation and the fulfilment of the rights of the Palestinian people, including to self-determination and independence.

In August 2021, Cabinet strongly objected the unilateral decision by the Chairperson of the AU Commission to grant Israel observer status in the AU, pointing out that it remained committed to efforts aimed at reviving a political process that would lead to the establishment of a viable Palestinian state, existing side by side in peace with Israel.

Syria

Since the start of the Syrian civil war in 2011, the two countries have continued to maintain diplomatic relations. South Africa affirmed its support for Syria's territorial integrity and reiterated its support for a political solution to the conflict in Syria. South Africa also declared its condemnation of all violence and human rights violations and remains concerned about the deteriorating humanitarian and security situation in Syria. South Africa has called on all parties involved to work for a comprehensive and peaceful resolution of the conflict taking into account the legitimate aspirations of the people of Syria, through inclusive national dialogue and a Syrian-led political process.

South Africa remains committed to protecting the fundamental interests of the Syrian people, maintaining peace and stability in the Middle East region and upholding the purposes and principles of the Charter of the UN and basic norms governing international relations.

Iraq

Bilateral relations are cordial and collaborative. The level of trade between the two countries has fluctuated. There are a number of bilateral agreements in various fields being negotiated, which will constitute an important framework in advancing the bilateral relations.

South Africa supports all international initiatives and the government of Iraq's efforts to restore stability and build inclusive and effective governance. The country reaffirmed its support for the mandate of the UN Mission in Iraq. It also supports the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iraq in line with the principles of the UN Charter.

Jordan

Jordan was the first Arab country to establish diplomatic relations with South Africa in 1993. The embassy of South Africa was established in Amman in December 1993, and the embassy of Jordan was opened in Pretoria in June 1994. The two countries enjoy a warm and increasingly diverse relationship, underpinned by strengthening political ties. The relationship would be further strengthened by concluding an MoU on Bilateral Consultations between the two countries.

South Africa wishes to further intensify its relations with Jordan, which has the potential to develop significantly, with particular emphasis in the economic sphere as well as in the areas of cultural interaction, tourism, education and people-to-people relations. The two countries are concluding an MoU on Bilateral Consultations, which recognises the importance of constructive dialogue as well as engaging on regional and international issues of common interest between the two countries.

Lebanon

South Africa has no residential diplomatic presence in Lebanon. The South African Ambassador in Syria is accredited to Lebanon on a non-residential basis. South Africa attaches great importance to the ties that have been built between the two countries.

United Arab Emirates

South Africa has strengthened its diplomatic and economic relations with the UAE in recent years, reflecting its position as South Africa's largest export trading partner in the region. The UAE is also a growing source of investment into the South African economy.

Relations were expected to gain momentum during 2021, with the UAE hosting the Dubai World Expo 2020. The event was postponed to 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. South Africa participated in the expo by managing a country pavilion. The country showcased its industrial and innovative capabilities through the promotion of the creation and development of hi-tech industries in accordance with the respective trends and requirements of economic growth within the realm of the 4IR, promoted infrastructure investment in Africa and contributed to regional integration. The aim was to also provide a platform for connectivity between South African business, government and civil society sectors.

Bilateral relations between the two countries are driven through a Ministerial JC, which reviews relations in the various fields of cooperation, including trade and investment, energy, agriculture, transport and social development. The mechanism also allows for the identification of new projects in a broad field of cooperation.

Iran

The primary mechanism for engagement with Iran is a JC established in 1995 and allows for a high-level review of bilateral relations and considers areas to further strengthen relations. The commission is supported by an inter-sessional mechanism, the Deputy Ministerial Working Group, which further monitors the implementation of decisions and undertakings made during the JC.

South Africa remains committed to support Iran as it currently manages the economic consequences of unilateral and secondary sanctions imposed by the USA, following its withdrawal from the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA). South Africa remains committed to diplomacy and the peaceful resolution of conflicts, as a matter of principle, and considers the JCPOA as a significant achievement in this regard. It remains South Africa's belief that the plan of action provides the necessary framework and confidence-building measures for Iran to re-enter the global economy whilst pursuing nuclear activities for peaceful purposes – a fundamental principle of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty.

The JCPOA was unanimously endorsed by the UNSC Resolution 2231, which provides a binding legal framework to the agreement.

Saudi Arabia

Diplomatic relations between South Africa and Saudi Arabia were formalised in November 1994. South Africa imports approximately 47% of its oil from the Arab country and regards it as a strategic partner in the Middle East.

To grow trade, investment and economic ties, including business-to-business cooperation between South Africa and Saudi Arabia, a number of business interactions have been arranged with Saudi Arabia.

The country is a large investor in the energy sector in South Africa, with ACWA Power being a major role player in South Africa's energy mix through its solar plants in several parts of the country. It is expected that the latest addition, the 100 megawatts Redstone Project in Postmasburg, will come online soon and be linked to Eskom's electricity grid.

Bilateral relations have, to date, been managed through a Joint Economic Commission (JEC), which is co-chaired by the Ministers of trade of the two countries. South Africa remains committed to solidifying strong bilateral relations in all fields, in line with the aspirations of the leadership of the two countries. This includes increased interaction on regional and international developments.

Qatar

South Africa's political and economic relations with Qatar have diversified and grown significantly over recent years and have become more diverse. Qatar has traditionally enjoyed a healthy trade surplus owing to the high proportion of oil and petrochemical trade to South Africa.

Qatar's investment is focussed on its 20% stake in the recently discovered Brulpradda oil and gas field. The 5th Session of the Bilateral Consultations between the two countries was scheduled to take place in July 2021.

Kuwait

Kuwait remains an important partner for South Africa in the Middle East, particularly in terms of economic relations. Kuwait has become an increasingly important market for South African exports and several Kuwaiti companies have made multimillion-rand investments in the construction and development of hotels and real estate in South Africa, as well as investments on the Johannesburg Stock Exchange. Kuwait is South Africa's largest source of FDI from the Middle East, especially in the hospitality industry, through the Zimbali Resort investment and the automotive component investment by KAPICO.

Recent investments include the export of livestock from developing farmers in the Eastern Cape to Kuwait, through the internationally renowned Kuwaiti company, Al Mawashi. South Africa is currently ranked sixth on the list of top exporters of live sheep to Kuwait, with a market share of 3.02% (US$1.24 million). This presents a crucial trade opportunity for South African farmers, given the significant appetite and keenness on the part of Kuwait to import South African live sheep. The two countries aim to work closely together to explore and take full advantage of the opportunities flowing from this cooperation.

Oman

Diplomatic relations were established in 1995 and are managed through the South Africa-Oman Partnership Forum. Both countries are keen to attract further investment. A primary project by Oman is the Port of Sohar Projects, which will facilitate the trade of agro-processed products from South Africa.

Yemen

Relations between South Africa and Yemen are cordial. Both countries are members of the UN, the IORA and the NAM. The continued civil war in Yemen has hindered the development and strengthening of bilateral relations.

North America

Canada

Canada and South Africa share cordial and historic relations based on shared values such as respect for democracy, human rights, multilateralism and diversity. Historic relations are based on Canada's opposition to apartheid in South Africa and contribution to the development of the Constitution. In multilateral fora, Canada and South Africa collaborate on such issues as the promotion of ethical governance, gender empowerment, peace and security and climate change.

The annual consultations are a structured mechanism that provides a platform for foreign policy discussions and sectoral cooperation on various areas, including trade and investment, development cooperation, science and innovation, clean technology, environmental affairs, mining, border management and the cultural industries. About two thirds of South African exports to Canada relate to minerals and mining equipment, with agricultural and chemical products making up the rest.

Canadian investments in South Africa are also largely concentrated in the mining sector, with more than 50% of total investment in this sector. The other 50% is fairly diversified across a number of sectors, including transportation, food processing, hospitality, ICT and instrumentation sectors.

United States of America

Bilateral relationship between South Africa and the USA is broad and deep, covering political, diplomatic, economic, social, scientific, educational, cultural, as well as regional and global cooperation on issues of mutual interest, such as peace and security, climate change and public health. The USA contributes over US$700 million in Official Development Assistance per year, which is aligned to South Africa's domestic priorities and contributes to addressing the triple challenges of poverty, inequality and unemployment. The US President's Emergency Programme for AIDS Relief continues to be impactful, both in South Africa and the region.

In 2020, the USA government contributed generously towards supporting South Africa's efforts to combat the spread of COVID-19 by donating personal protection equipment (PPE) and ventilators, among others. The USA is also a major economic partner for South Africa, with approximately 600 companies operating in the country, bringing in significant investments, technology and opportunities for skills development. Bilateral trade between the two countries increased from R117 billion in 2014 to over R189 billion in 2020. In addition, the USA is an important export market for South Africa and a significant source of tourists. The African Growth and Opportunity Act, under which South Africa gains duty-free and quota-free access to the US market for value-added products, forms the bedrock of the economic relationship. There are also an increasing number of South African companies investing in the USA.

Regional organisations

European Union

The EU remains a key strategic region for South Africa and a prominent dialogue partner from the global North. Relations with the EU are structured in accordance with the Trade, Development and Cooperation Agreement, whereas trade relations are governed by the SADC-EU EPA. The South Africa-EU Strategic Partnership is the only one of its kind that the EU has with an African country, and one of only 10 globally.

The strategic partnership expanded the scope of the interaction beyond trade issues, to incorporate a much wider scope of cooperation with structured bilateral mechanisms and high-level meetings (summit, ministerial political dialogue, SOM and inter-parliamentary meetings) to support South Africa's national, regional, continental, and global priorities and programmes.

The JCC, co-chaired by the DG of the DIRCO and the EU counterpart, covers over twenty sectoral policy dialogues, including diverse issues such as development cooperation, science and technology, space, migration, health, trade, education and skills development, peace and security, and human rights.

The EU is South Africa's largest trading partner, as a block of 27 member states, and largest foreign investor, representing the majority of total FDI stocks in the country. More than 2 000 EU companies operate in South Africa, creating more than 500 000 direct and indirect jobs. International Relations and Cooperation Minister Naledi Pandor and the EU's High Representative and Vice President, Dr Josep Borrell, held a virtual Ministerial Political Dialogue in July 2020. The Eighth SA-EU Summit was expected to be held in South Africa in 2021.

Western Europe

Austria

South Africa and Austria maintain a good relationship, much of which is focussed on economic relations, renewable energy, science and innovation, vocational training and culture. Relations are managed through bilateral consultations, chaired at the level of Senior Officials.

Bilateral trade reached R7 billion in 2020 – 28% lower than the year before. The number of Austrian nationals that visited South Africa dropped from 30 376 in 2019 to 9 367 in 2020 as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Belgium

Bilateral relations between South Africa and Belgium are managed through a JC, which is chaired at the level of deputy foreign ministers. The Flanders region of Belgium has a regional representation in South Africa. South Africa and Flanders also manage their relationship through a JC. The next meeting, which was provisionally scheduled for the end of 2021 or beginning of 2022, would focus on new areas of potential cooperation, following the end of as the Flanders Development Programme.

Bilateral trade reached R54 million in 2020. Belgium is traditionally an important source of tourism to South Africa, but the number of Belgian tourists visiting South Africa declined from 54 223 in 2019 to 12 726 in 2020 as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. Belgium was the sixth-largest foreign direct investor in South Africa in 2020, with R185.7 billion in FDI in areas such as mining, green energy, ports, logistics and agriculture.

Germany

Germany is one of South Africa's most important strategic partners. It is the second-largest market for South African exports, the third-largest source of overseas tourists and a major investor, with about 600 German companies having representative offices in South Africa. Germany also has an extensive development programme in South Africa and has provided COVID-19 support to South Africa in the form of field hospitals, PPE and humanitarian assistance to communities affected by the pandemic.

Bilateral relations between the two countries are managed through a BNC, which is chaired at the level of Foreign Ministers. The 10th meeting of the BNC was held virtually in March 2020.

The commission comprises eight working groups:

- Foreign and Security Policy,
- Economy and Energy,
- Development Cooperation,
- Environment,
- Science and Technology,
- Arts and Culture,
- Labour and Social Affairs, and
- Vocational Education and Training.

The BNC followed the successful visit to South Africa by Federal Chancellor Angela Merkel in February 2020 during which a Statement of Intent on Skills Development was signed.

Bilateral trade reached R216 billion in 2020 – a 7% decrease on the year before. However, South Africa, unlike previous years, recorded a trade surplus with Germany in 2020. Germany remains one of the largest foreign investors in South Africa. The number of visitors from Germany dropped from 322 720 in 2019 to 106 083 in 2020, as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Luxembourg

South Africa and Luxembourg enjoy active economic relations with a number of South Africa's largest companies having subsidiaries or European head quarters registered in Luxembourg. The largest of these is MINORCO (a company owned by Anglo American, De Beers and the Oppenheimer family).

Since 1994, South Africa and Luxembourg have signed seven bilateral agreements, ranging from economic to development cooperation in the areas of health and agriculture. Luxembourg's significance for South Africa lies mainly in the country being an important centre of the international financial community. Bilateral trade reached R578 million in 2020 – 16% lower than the previous year.

The Netherlands

South Africa and the Netherlands maintain a strong and diversified relationship. Areas of cooperation include trade and investment, culture, science and innovation, education, climate and environment, water management and many others. Bilateral relations are managed through a JC, which is chaired by the foreign ministers of the two countries. The inaugural meeting of the commission was held in Pretoria in February 2020 and the second meeting was scheduled to be held in The Hague towards the end of 2021. There is also a separate Joint Working Committee on Science and Technology that deliberates on ways in which relations in this field could be advanced.

Bilateral trade reached R70 billion in 2020 – 20% higher than the year before. Much of South Africa's exports to Europe, including about one fifth of all agricultural exports, go through the port of Rotterdam. The Netherlands is also one of the biggest foreign investors in South Africa. The number of tourists from the Netherlands declined from 144 071 in 2019 to only 35 026 in 2020 due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Switzerland

Switzerland has always been an important economic partner for South Africa. In recent years, the political dialogue has expanded as a result of Switzerland's mediation role in Mozambique and elsewhere on the African continent. Bilateral relations are managed through High-Level Consultations, which are chaired by the deputy foreign ministers of the two countries. The 10th Meeting of the High-Level Consultations was scheduled to be held in South Africa during the course of 2021.

Switzerland maintains a development programme in South Africa, which has transitioned from development assistance to economic development. The programme is implemented in consultation with National Treasury.

Bilateral trade reached R30 billion in 2020 – 28% higher than in 2019. Some 200 Swiss companies are represented in South Africa and they employ about 36 000 South Africans. The number of visitors from Switzerland dropped from 55 432 in 2019 to 15 697 in 2020 as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.

United Kingdom

Bilateral relations between South Africa and the UK cover a wide spectrum and have a far-reaching impact. Cooperation between the two countries is broad and includes health, education, science and technology, energy, the environment, defence, police, arts and culture, and sport and recreation. Bilateral relations between South Africa and the UK are managed through a Bilateral Forum at Foreign Ministerial Level, which meets biennially. South Africa and the UK have a strong historic trading relationship, which is also one of South Africa's most important trading relationships.

There is a healthy flow of investment in both directions. The UK is recognised as the foremost source of FDI into South Africa, while South African companies equally have made large investments in the UK. The two countries have identified key sectors for investment to boost economic growth and development.

These sectors include manufacturing, agro-processing, infrastructure development, mining, energy and tourism. South Africa and the UK also have strong relationship in wide-ranging areas of cooperation, including energy, science and technology, education, health, arts and culture.

In May 2021, Cabinet welcomed measures taken by the UK in assisting South Africa in the fight against corruption by acting against individuals who are accused of having committed fraud and corruption in the country. These include the arrest of Michael Lomas in the UK in connection with a fraud case in South Africa and the imposition of sanctions on the Gupta brothers – Ajay, Atul and Rajesh, and their associate Salim Essa for their roles in a persistent pattern of corruption in South Africa, which caused significant damage to the South African economy and its people.

Ireland

Bilateral relations between South Africa and Ireland are cordial. The relations are managed through the biennial South Africa-Ireland Partnership Forum at Deputy Ministerial Level. After 1994, Ireland strongly supported the reconstruction and development of South Africa with an extensive development cooperation programme. Ireland's Africa strategy document emphasises South Africa's important role in Africa and globally. Ireland continues to be a valued source of FDI in business services, alternative/renewable energy, software and information technology services, and plastics.

The Irish Government also provides assistance to South African students through the Kader Asmal Fellowship Programme, which started in 2013. Ireland is the only visa-free country for South African ordinary passports in the EU.

France

France is a significant technological, trade, investment, tourism and development cooperation partner for South Africa. Bilateral technical cooperation between South Africa and France exist in various sectors, including energy, agriculture, manufacturing, transport, education and science and technology. About 250 French companies have invested in South Africa and employ around 300 000 people.

Following their 8th South Africa-France Forum for Political Dialogue, the two countries agreed to strengthen bilateral relations. They further agreed to reduce global inequality under France's G7 Presidency, and continue to support the Paris Agreement on Climate Change and the common vision on the environment and human rights. They also agreed to a number of bilateral interactions and cooperation, which include:

- regular interaction and deliberation on addressing peace, security and development concerns in Africa;
- deepen the working relationship between the AU, EU and UN to bolster peace keeping, security, governance and promoting democracy in Africa; and

- increase cooperation in the Indian Ocean and continue discussions about France's role in the IORA.

During the forum, the two countries signed new agreements, namely the:

- Agreement on Cooperation in the Field of Basic Education;
- Declaration of Intent on Establishing a Co-funded Scholarship for master's and doctoral students;
- Framework Agreement between the South African National Space Agency and the Centre National d'Etudes Spatiales in Space Cooperatio;
- Financing Agreement between the Industrial Development Corporation of South Africa Limited and Agence Française de développement;
- MoU between La Réunion National Park and the South African National Parks; and
- Cooperation Protocol between the Association pour le Centre de ressources et d'appui sur le risque requin à La Réunion of the French Republic and the KwaZulu-Natal Sharks Board of South Africa.

Greece

South Africa and Greece enjoy traditional and close ties of friendship and cooperation as well as a convergence of views and cooperation on various regional and international issues in general. South Africa-Greece relations are, furthermore, underpinned by the presence of a substantial and influential Greek professional and business community in South Africa. Bilateral relations between the two countries continue to grow in a number of strategic and mutually beneficial areas.

Cyprus

South Africa has excellent and long-standing bilateral relations with Cyprus. It has maintained strong ties with that country, partly because of a substantial and influential Cypriot community in South Africa.

Italy

South Africa and Italy maintain excellent relations covering the full range of activities, both on a governmental level as well as in the private sector. In 2003, the ministers of foreign affairs of South Africa and Italy, signed an MoU on Bilateral Consultations, establishing a framework for regular bilateral consultations at Ministerial or Deputy Ministerial Level and regular meetings at Senior Official Level.

The focus remains on sustaining political dialogue and increasing economic cooperation between South Africa and Italy, focussing on the priorities of the NDP. Both countries have signed a number of agreements in various areas of cooperation in fields such as science and technology, defence, police and water, among others, and are in the process of exploring further areas of cooperation in sectors such as environment.

Italy views South Africa as a strategic partner and a leader on the African continent. It is the eighth-largest economy in the world and a member of the G20 and the G7. South Africa's economic relations with Italy are strong and there is a growing interest in the country as an investment destination.

Italy and South Africa have engaged in a strategic partnership as equals based on shared values and converging interests, which include supporting peace, security and development in Africa, strengthening and reforming the multilateral system and promoting a more inclusive, efficient and equitable system of global governance.

Spain

Spain is one of South Africa's major trading partners in the EU. There are 100 Spanish companies that have invested in South Africa and they are estimated to have created over 12 000 jobs largely in renewable energy and metals sectors.

Portugal

Bilateral relations between South Africa and Portugal are cordial and cover many areas, underpinned by a High-level Political Consultative Forum, which provides a platform for the two countries to explore the deepening of relations across the spectrum of South Africa's national priorities, political cooperation, the strengthening of trade and investment and development cooperation.

In February 2020, Minister Pandor and the Minister of Foreign Affairs in Portugal, Professor Augusto Santos Silva, held Bilateral Consultations in South Africa. South Africa has the third-largest Portuguese community in the world after those in France and Brazil.

Holy See

South Africa opened a Mission at the Holy See in 2017. The Holy See is of strategic importance politically and in respect of human rights and international humanitarian law.

Central, Eastern Europe, Nordic And Baltic Countries Nordic countries

South Africa enjoys good relations with all the Nordic and Baltic countries flowing from the strong grassroots support of these countries for democratisation in South Africa.

Relations have been established in various fields at both public and official levels. The scope of Nordic development cooperation is broad and has benefited civil society and government. Although Nordic countries stopped providing development assistance to South Africa in 2009, these countries continue to provide technical support and also partner with South Africa and civil society in addressing development needs in various fields.

There is also close cooperation on multilateral issues informed by mutually shared values. The Nordic countries are strong supporters of the AUDA-NEPAD and are directly involved in conflict resolution and reconstruction projects in Africa.

This was reinforced by the signing of the Declaration of Intent on Partnerships in Africa in 2008, which laid a framework for future trilateral cooperation.

Denmark

Bilateral relations between South Africa and Denmark are predicated on the historic Danish support and solidarity with the liberation struggle against apartheid in the early 1960s, leading to the eventual establishment of formal diplomatic relations at the advent of South Africa's democracy.

Denmark is also an important partner with regard to overseas development cooperation. South Africa's relations with Denmark are coordinated through the South Africa-Denmark Senior Officials Consultations and the main areas of cooperation include water-resource management, science and technology, maritime and environmental affairs.

South Africa's bilateral trade with Denmark has seen steady growth and totals more than R36 billion since 2015. Denmark is also a significant investor with 21 new investments since 2003.

Estonia

South Africa formally recognised the independence of Estonia and the other Baltic States on 28 August 1991. Bilateral relations between the two countries have been developing gradually since the establishment of diplomatic relations in 1991. There is no resident Estonian Mission in South Africa, while the South African Embassy in Finland is also accredited to Estonia on a non-residential basis.

South Africa and Estonia have enjoyed excellent cooperation during Estonia's tenure as a non-permanent member of the UNSC (2020 – 2021). Economic relations are still at developmental stages, and trade volumes are relatively small. South African exports consist mainly of vehicles, aircraft and vessels, foodstuffs, iron and steel products, and machinery.

Finland

Diplomatic relations between South Africa and Finland were re-established in 1994. The bilateral relationship was given more definite structure with the signing of the Declaration of Intent at the Skagen Nordic Summit in 2000. Regular Bilateral Consultations are coordinated at Senior Official Level.

The main areas of cooperation include trade and investment, science and technology, innovation, education (marine studies), ICT and energy. The Blue Economy is central to both countries and is also emphasised as an area with potential for future partnerships. Finland supports Africa's infrastructure development through its funding of the EU-Africa Infrastructure Trust Fund. It also supports the implementation of the Joint Africa-EU Strategy by promoting four of the eight thematic partnerships of the joint strategy in Africa, namely peace and security, democratic governance and human rights, climate change, and science, information society and space.

Economic relations are good, with bilateral investments having taken place in the mining and paper/wood industries. Major South African investments have been made by Mondi, Sappi and Anglo American. Between 2003 and 2020, it is estimated that Finnish companies invested approximately R4 billion in South Africa in various sectors, including industrial machinery, equipment and tools, business services, engines and turbines, paper and packaging and communications.

Finland is also a strong international partner in various areas of global concerns such as strengthening multilateralism, international law, the advancement of gender and human rights as well as around issues of climate change, and has recently launched an Africa strategy.

Iceland

Diplomatic relations were established in 1995 on a non-residential basis. Iceland is accredited to South Africa from its Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Reykjavik, and South Africa is accredited to Iceland from its embassy in Oslo, Norway.

Iceland forms part of the Nordic coalition of like-minded states concerning their policies towards South Africa, Africa and international issues, and they play an important role in keeping Africa on the global agenda. Economic relations have not developed significantly and bilateral trade remains below R100 million.

Latvia

South Africa was among the first countries to recognise the independence of Latvia, following the restoration of the independence of the country on 29 August 1991. South Africa established full diplomatic relations with Latvia on 4 November 1991. The two countries have since enjoyed warm and cordial relations but due to a lack of vigorous economic interaction and well-defined bilateral cooperation framework, relations between the two countries have failed to reach full potential.

Latvia does not have an embassy in South Africa but the country has a non-resident ambassador accredited to South Africa stationed in Riga, the capital of Latvia. South Africa has non-resident accreditation through the Ambassador in Sweden.

Lithuania

South Africa and Lithuania entered into diplomatic relations in 2008 and the first Lithuanian Ambassador to South Africa was appointed in 2015. The South African Embassy in Sweden is accredited to Lithuania.

Relations between South Africa and Lithuania are coordinated at Senior Official Level. The main areas of cooperation between South Africa and Lithuania include trade and investment, energy, transport, science and technology, and academic and cultural cooperation.

Norway

Full diplomatic relations between South Africa and Norway were established in January 1992. Both countries cooperate and support each other in bilateral and multilateral relations. South Africa's relations with Norway are coordinated through the South Africa-Norway High-Level Consultations – a mechanism within the framework of the 1996 MoU on Bilateral Political Consultations, established to deepen relations and expand trade and investment.

Bilateral cooperation has grown to include regional and international issues of mutual interest. South Africa and Norway have worked together on the UNSC in promoting the Women, Peace and Security Agenda, and peace and mediation on the African continent. Norway also supports the NDP priorities through technical cooperation in the areas of oceans management, cooperation in trade and investment, renewable energy, climate change, materials efficiency, waste management and recycling, shipbuilding (boat building), agro-processing and minerals.

Sweden

Relations between Sweden and South Africa date back to the 1930s when a South African legation was opened in Stockholm. Relations were upgraded to Ambassadorial Level in 1994. Bilateral relations between South Africa and Sweden were further cemented by the South Africa-Sweden Partnership Year in 1999. Since then, a number of events took place, reinforcing and deepening the already close bilateral relations. In recognition of a strategic partnership that exists between the two countries, the South Africa-Sweden BNC was established in 2000 – chaired at the level of Deputy President and Deputy Prime Minister respectively. Areas of cooperation include trade and investment, higher education, science and technology, water-resource management, energy, maritime affairs, culture, ICT, environmental affairs and defence.

Besides the work of the BNC, South Africa and Sweden established a Defence Committee that convenes independently of the BNC. A Memorandum on Defence Cooperation was concluded in 2000. The defence committee discusses and exchanges information within areas of regional security, defence management, bilateral defence agreements, peacekeeping operations, mutual visits, exchange of defence-related information, training and defence-industrial cooperation.

Eastern Europe

The Eastern Europe region is of crucial importance to South Africa's strategic objectives, straddling a wide spectrum of political and economic interests. The region is well endowed with strategic commodities and minerals that are of vital significance to South Africa's economy.

Azerbaijan

South Africa and Azerbaijan established diplomatic relations in 1991. The South African Embassy in Ankara is also accredited to Azerbaijan on a non-residential basis.

Structured bilateral relations were established by means of an MoU on Regular Diplomatic Consultations that was concluded in February 2014. The MoU provides for the strengthening and broadening of the scope of bilateral cooperation in the political, economic, scientific, technological, cultural and humanitarian areas. Other areas of potential interests are energy, defence and air services.

Bilateral relations are coordinated at the level of Senior Officials and areas of cooperation include trade and investment, defence, energy and higher education.

Belarus

Diplomatic relations between South Africa and Belarus were established in March 1993. Currently, the South African Ambassador to the Russian Federation is the non-residential Ambassador to Belarus. Belarus opened its embassy in South Africa in January 2000 and the first South African Ambassador presented credentials in February 2000.

The two countries enjoy good bilateral relations that have been strengthened by the exchange of high-level visits for political consultations in the past few years. On the economic front, South Africa and Belarus mainly engage through the Inter-governmental Committee on Trade and Economic Cooperation (ITEC), led by the Department of Trade, Industry and Competition.

The committee is co-chaired at the level of Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs on the Belarusian side and Deputy Minister of Trade, Industry and Competition on the South African side. The primary objective of the cooperation is to strengthen and develop trade and economic cooperation on a long term and stable basis and on the principles of equality and mutual benefit.

Georgia

Full diplomatic relations between South Africa and Georgia were established in 1992. The South African Embassy in Kyiv, Ukraine, is non-residentially accredited to Georgia. The Government of Georgia opened an embassy in South Africa in August 2011.

Structured bilateral engagements between South Africa and Georgia, at the level of Senior Officials, were established in November 1993 by means of a Protocol on Cooperation between the then Department of Foreign Affairs (now the DIRCO) and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Georgia. Areas of focus include tourism, trade and investment, agriculture, culture and sport.

The two countries have established a wine-makers exchange programme, which has seen student and expert exchanges between Telavi State University, a Georgian University and Stellenbosch University's Wine Sciences Department.

Russian Federation

Diplomatic relations between Russian and South Africa were established on 28 February 1992. The historical links between the two countries remain strong. The former USSR was one of the key supporters of the Struggle for liberation in South Africa. South Africa became the first African state to recognise the independence of Russia, post the dissolution of the USSR.

South Africa regards Russia as an important strategic partner and close bilateral and multilateral ties exist between the two countries. Since the re-establishment of bilateral relations, South Africa's relations with Russia have evolved into a strategic relationship over the past few years through continued high-level political engagements. The Declaration on a Strategic Partnership between South Africa and Russia was signed on the margins of the Fifth BRICS Summit held in Durban in March 2013 by the two countries' Heads of State.

This set principles and a framework for an equitable and mutually beneficial partnership that will support the two countries' national development priorities, the African Agenda and the establishment of a peaceful, just and democratic global governance system.

One of the primary mechanisms for improving the bilateral relationship and advancing government's development objectives is the ITEC, which was established in 1999. The committee is the most important mechanism underpinning mutually beneficial trade and economic ties between the two countries. It has proven to be an effective instrument for effective engagement on trade and investment issues, as well as critical skills and technology transfers amongst others.

The ITEC has given practical substance to the political commitment on the part of the two countries to work together, as expressed in the Treaty of Friendship and Partnership signed by both countries. Sectors covered within the agriculture, forestry and fisheries, energy, education, mineral resources, science and technology, transport, water and sanitation, trade and industry.

Besides the work of the ITEC, South Africa and Russia established a defence committee that convenes independently. There is also growing inter-regional/provincial cooperation that bodes well for strengthened economic cooperation, tourism and people-to-people contact.

Serbia

Diplomatic relations between South Africa and Serbia were established in April 2002 when Serbia was still referred to as the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia.

Serbia regards South Africa as a strategic partner on the African continent, a regional power and a leading economy that is playing a positive role in promoting peace, security and sustainable development in Africa.

South Africa's contribution to the advancement of multilateralism, the rule of law, human rights and an equitable global governance system is similarly appreciated. Serbia opened its embassy in Pretoria in June 1996. The South African Ambassador in Athens, Greece, is accredited to Serbia on a non-resident basis.

Both countries enjoy cordial bilateral relations, which are coordinated at the level of Senior Officials. Areas of cooperation include trade and investment, education and agriculture.

Turkey

Diplomatic relations between South Africa and Turkey were established in 1995 and have resident embassies in Pretoria and Ankara respectively. The two countries enjoy good bilateral relations, which have been strengthened by a number of bilateral agreements on different areas of cooperation. An agreement to elevate the relations to a BNC at Deputy President and Prime Minister levels, respectively, was signed in Turkey on 7 June 2012 and ratified by the Turkish Parliament in July 2015.

The South Africa-Turkey Strategic Partnership is informed by the two countries' growing political and economic profile and their geostrategic location in Africa and Euro-Asia; Turkey's rapidly growing political and economic footprint in Africa, including the Africa-Turkey Strategic Partnership; the two countries' capacity to project their foreign policies regionally and globally; and active participation and membership in various organisations such as the G20 and the UN.

On the economic front, relations between South Africa and Turkey are coordinated through the South Africa-Turkey JEC, led by the Minister of Trade, Industry and Competition on the South African side. The primary objective of the JEC, which was established in 2005, is to promote and deepen bilateral trade and economic relations between the two countries. Priority sectors for the JEC include agriculture and agri-business; automotives; infrastructure, energy and construction services; minerals resources; textile and clothing; and tourism.

Ukraine

Bilateral relations between South Africa and Ukraine are cordial. Diplomatic relations between the two countries were established in March 1992 and their embassies were established in Kiev and Pretoria in 1992 and 1995 respectively. The South African Embassy in Ukraine is accredited on a non-residential basis to Georgia, Moldova and Armenia.

The two countries regularly engage through political consultations at Senior Official Level. These political consultations are guided by both the MoU between Ministries of Foreign Affairs of South Africa and Ukraine (1994) and the Joint Declaration on Relations and Cooperation between South Africa and Ukraine (November 1996) that provide for regular bilateral political consultations between the foreign ministries.

The main areas of cooperation between the two countries are science and technology; defence; and cooperation between the South African Council for Geoscience and the Ministry of Environmental and Natural Resources of Ukraine, with more possible areas of cooperation currently being explored. There are growing trade relations between South Africa and Ukraine.

Central Europe

Central Europe has seen substantial improvement in relations with South Africa. A number of bilateral mechanisms with these countries were established at various levels.

The areas of cooperation have been considerable in, inter alia, the fields of education, arts and culture, science and technology, agriculture, water affairs, trade and tourism. South Africa works very closely with Central European countries on multilateral forums.

Bulgaria

South Africa and Bulgaria have maintained cordial and warm relations dating back to the liberation Struggle as Bulgaria hosted a number of anti-apartheid activists. Diplomatic relations at the level of Ambassador were established through the exchange of notes in February 1992 and the South African Embassy in Sofia started functioning in 1992, while the Bulgarian Embassy in Pretoria was opened in February 1993. With the intention of expanding relations, several bilateral agreements have been concluded in the areas of air services, defence, tourism, security, arts and culture, healthcare and medical sciences, and education, while several others are under consideration. Bilateral trade and investments remain at a low level.

Croatia

Bilateral relations between South Africa and Croatia have developed steadily since diplomatic relations were established in 1992. The South African Embassy in Hungary is accredited to Croatia whilst Croatia opened its embassy in Pretoria in November 1995.

Bilateral relations between the two countries are coordinated at the level of Senior Officials with emphasis in various areas such as marine technology, higher education and training, science and technology, and tourism.

Czech Republic

Full diplomatic relations between South Africa and the Czech Republic were established in 1991 and resident embassies in each other's capitals were established soon after.

Bilateral relations have evolved to a level of maturity, underpinned by increasing commercial and business-to-business activities, as well as people-to-people exchanges. Political consultations are coordinated at Deputy Ministerial level. Areas of cooperation between the two countries include tourism, defence, medical equipment, pharmaceuticals and agro-processing.

Trade and economic relations between South Africa and Czech Republic are governed by the South Africa-Czech Republic Joint Committee for Economic Cooperation (JCEC), which aims to promote and deepen bilateral trade and economic cooperation.

Hungary

Hungary was the first, among the Central European countries, to establish diplomatic ties with South Africa. Full diplomatic relations between the two countries were established in July 1991.

Both countries enjoy cordial bilateral relations. Political consultations are coordinated at Deputy Ministerial Level. Areas of cooperation between the two countries include higher education, science and technology, water-resources management, defence and agro-processing.

The two countries also established a JCC, which aims to promote and deepen bilateral trade and economic cooperation.

Poland

Diplomatic relations between South Africa and Poland were concluded in December 1991 and embassies were opened in each capital. Political consultations between the two countries are coordinated at the Deputy Ministerial Level. Areas of cooperation between Poland and South Africa include aeronautics, automotive, defence and agriculture. Poland, with a population of 38 million people, is the largest single market among the “new” EU states. South Africa is Poland’s top trade partner in Africa

The two countries have agreed to establish a JEC, which will promote and deepen trade and economic cooperation.

Romania

South Africa and Romania established diplomatic relations in November 1991. The formal mechanism, legalising bilateral political consultations on an institutionalised basis between South Africa and Romania, was signed in September 2016.

The protocol is crucial in strengthening bilateral relations as well as providing a political framework for other agreements and commitments. South Africa and Romania signed an agreement in the field of science and technology in September 2004. The partnership has successfully contributed to scientific advancement in both countries.

Other areas of cooperation between South Africa and Romania include energy, mining, agriculture, and marine technology.

Slovakia

Full diplomatic relations between the former Federal Republic of Czechoslovakia and South Africa were established in October 1991. The dissolution of the Federal Republic of Czechoslovakia brought about the Slovak Republic as a separate sovereign state in 1993.

The bilateral diplomatic relations entered into with the Federal Republic of Czechoslovakia continued uninterrupted with the Slovak Republic. South Africa’s bilateral relations with Slovakia are sound.

Whilst South Africa does not have an embassy in Bratislava, the country’s relations with Slovakia are managed on a non-resident basis by the South African embassy in Vienna. Areas of cooperation between South Africa and Slovakia are in the fields of automotive (including automotive components), agro-processing, medical equipment and pharmaceuticals.

Economic relations between South Africa and Slovakia are governed by a JCEC.

Slovenia

Full diplomatic relations between South Africa and Slovenia were established in 1992. While South Africa does not have an embassy in Slovenia, the country’s relations with Slovenia are managed on a non-resident basis by the South African Embassy in Vienna. The Ambassador of Slovenia to Egypt is accredited on a non-residential basis to South Africa.

Both countries enjoy cordial bilateral relations. Bilateral relations between the two countries exist at the level of Senior Officials, with meetings taking place alternatively every two years.

Latin America and the Caribbean

South Africa’s bilateral relations with Latin America and the Caribbean continue to advance the developmental agenda of the South, and strengthen cooperation among developing countries through active participation in groupings of the South at regional, inter-regional and multilateral levels.

In this regard, the need to build stronger and balanced relationships with Latin American and the Caribbean countries is of particular importance. South Africa has observer status in the Caribbean Community and Common Market and acts as the region’s voice in the G20.

Mexico

Bilateral relations between South Africa and Mexico are good and the two countries work closely together in multilateral forums on issues such as South-South cooperation and nuclear disarmament. South Africa is Mexico’s biggest trading partner in Africa.

Mexico is an export-orientated economy, with 90% of its trade being practised through FTAs. Mexico has more FTAs than any other country and relies on FDI and tourism to boost its economy.

South Africa-Mexico relations are well established with existing cooperation in, among others, agribusiness, automotive industry, mining, science and technology, tourism, diplomatic training and skills development. Progress has also been made in recent years in the area of trade and investment with various South African companies, such as Old Mutual, Aspen, Blue Label Telecoms, Standard Bank, Naspers, Sappi, Mondi and Dimension Data, operating in Mexico.

Mexico also has a significant presence in South Africa with mobile phone products, automobile components and food products. Mexico was recently elected to the UNSC for the fifth time, for the biennium 2021 – 2022.

Mexico and South Africa have agreed to strengthen cooperation on UNSC issues of mutual interest such as conflict prevention, the peaceful resolution of conflict, mainstreaming of gender in peace missions through UNSC Resolution 1325 on Women, Peace and Security, as well as UN reform. The two countries are active members of the G20 and have agreed to cooperate to advocate for a coordinated global health and socio-economic response to COVID-19.

Guatemala

South Africa and Guatemala enjoy cordial relations. The South African Embassy in Mexico is responsible for South Africa’s relations with Guatemala on a non-residential basis. The South African Ambassador to Mexico has received Agrément for non-official representation in Guatemala, but the formal presentation ceremony of credentials has yet to take place.

Panama

Panama was the first Central and South American country that went into total lockdown of all points of entry: ports, airports and in particular the Panama Canal, as the COVID-19 pandemic started to roll across the world in 2020.

Panama’s Embassy in South Africa is focussed on business relations and the recruitment of South African expertise to contribute to its development and competitiveness, especially in mining, agriculture, logistics, construction and engineering. There are over 3 000 South Africans living and working in Panama. South Africa’s Ambassador in Mexico City is also accredited as South Africa’s non-residential Ambassador to Panama.

Brazil

South Africa continues to enjoy cordial relations with Brazil, premised on the principles of solidarity and development cooperation. South Africa’s approach to Brazil is driven largely by similarity of the challenges faced by both countries. The two countries also enjoy strategic partner status and close cooperation in terms of the BIRCS and the IBSA formations. They share common interests in maintaining peace and security in the South Atlantic, as well as playing a leading role in their respective regions.

South Africa and Brazil's bilateral relations are managed by a JCC at Ministerial Level. The last JCC was held in 2013 in Brazil. The countries agreed to reactivate the JCC in 2021. South Africa and Brazil have maintained and deepened strategic relations, guided by solid political dialogue, relevant economic-commercial exchange and cooperation on areas of mutual interest, which encompass fields such as the defence industry, agribusiness and the aerospace sector.

In 2020, South Africa and Brazil commemorated the 10th anniversary of the Declaration on the Establishment of a Strategic Partnership between the two countries. The Presidents of South Africa and Brazil meet regularly to discuss issues of mutual interest. South Africa maintains the view that the Rio+20 Conference, which took place in Brazil in June 2012, helped to ensure that the issue of sustainable development remained a top priority on the agenda of the UN and the international community.

Argentina

Argentina is South Africa's third-largest trading partner in Latin America and the Caribbean region after Brazil and Mexico. Continued engagement through a structured BNC at Ministerial Level ensures regular bilateral interaction and trade opportunities between the two countries, especially in the field of agriculture.

The Caribbean

South Africa enjoys cordial relations with the countries of the Caribbean. The majority of inhabitants of the Caribbean are of African descent and have strong historical and cultural links to the continent.

South Africa's endeavour, in conjunction with the AU and the Caribbean Community, to strengthen cooperation between Africa and the African Diaspora in the Caribbean has given added impetus to bilateral and multilateral relations. South Africa attaches importance to strengthening its relations with the Caribbean and developing common positions on global issues such as access to the markets of the industrial North, reform of international institutions and promoting the development agenda and protection of small island states.

The Caribbean Community

The Caribbean Community was established in 1973. The organisation comprises 15 Caribbean nations and dependencies. The community's main purposes are to promote economic integration and cooperation among its members to ensure that the benefits of integration are equitably shared and to coordinate foreign policy.

South Africa enjoys cordial relations with the countries of the Caribbean Community and recognises that the majority of inhabitants in this region are of African descent with historical and cultural links to the African continent. In this regard, South Africa is committed to strengthen relations with the African Diaspora in line with a similar commitment by the AU that is guided by Pan-African solidarity and South-South cooperation.

South Africa was granted formal Observer Status to the Caribbean Community in February 2014. South Africa and the Caribbean Community continue to work together in multilateral fora as recently demonstrated by the overwhelming support South Africa received in the voting for the non-permanent seat at the UNSC for 2019 – 2020 and other international institutions inside and outside of the UN system.

Uruguay

South African and Uruguayan relations are conducted through political consultations that were signed in 2015. Uruguay is committed to expand its presence on the African continent and is actively contributing to the MONUSCO Peacekeeping Mission in the DRC.

Chile

South Africa and Chile enjoy sound bilateral relations, which are conducted through a Joint Consultative Mechanism at Deputy Ministerial Level. The Joint Consultative Mechanism continues to serve a constructive purpose in the ongoing political dialogue between the two countries at bilateral, regional and multilateral levels.

South Africa is Chile's largest trading partner in Africa and the biggest investor in the country's mining sector. The biggest area of trade between South Africa and Chile is capital goods for mining.

Colombia

Bilateral relations between South Africa and Colombia are cordial and growing. South Africa has affirmed its commitment to assist Colombia in achieving lasting peace after years of conflict.

Central America and the Andean region

The Andean Community

The Andean Community is an FTA with the objective of creating a customs union comprising the South American countries of Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador and Peru. The region is considered a potential economic growth point with Peru being one of the fastest-growing economies in the region prior to the COVID-19 pandemic. Cooperation with the Latin American countries is in line with South Africa's foreign policy objective of South-South cooperation to strengthen social and economic relations and technical cooperation to advance mutual development priorities.

With regard to South Africa's Industrial Policy Action Plan, the Latin American region is rich in mineral resources and countries such as Chile, Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia have expressed a strong interest to work with South Africa to strengthen trade, investment and technical cooperation in mining.

Ecuador

The bilateral relationship between South Africa and Ecuador remains sound and cordial, and is conducted through a Political Consultation Mechanism. The main area of focus is on higher education, through academic exchange programmes by institutions from the two countries.

Paraguay

South Africa and Paraguay countries are working on finalising a MoU on political consultations, which will provide further impetus on the conduct of bilateral relations between the two countries in various areas.

Peru

Despite the challenges experienced by the Central America and the Andean Region, especially against the background of the current COVID-19 situation, Peru remains a regional hub for economic growth and was one of the fastest-growing economies in Latin America prior to the pandemic. Peru is, for example, the world's second-largest copper producer.

South African exports to Peru include chemicals, food products, seeds, beverages, car parts, scaffolding, spare parts for large machinery and condiments, while South Africa imports explosives, seafood, cotton clothing, alpaca clothing and wool, coffee, frozen foods, asparagus and cacao from Peru. South Africa is also a large investor in Peru, with companies such as Anglo American, Gold Fields and Cochrane International operating in the mining sector.

In the field of agro-processing, aquaculture is an important potential area for cooperation given Peru's strong capabilities in the sector. South Africa is one of the largest investors in Peru, with the then SABMiller, now AB InBev, and Anglo American operating in that country.

The main South African exports to Peru are mining equipment, paper and carton, metal sheeting and specialised structural steel.

Venezuela

South Africa-Venezuela relations are underpinned by historic ties of solidarity. South Africa continues to pursue strong relations with Venezuela. Venezuela remain a strategic partner of South Africa in Latin America, especially in the context of South-South cooperation as well as the potential for a future economic partnership due to its abundant oil and gas reserves.

Since 2016, The Presidency and foreign ministries have, on several occasions, held bilateral meetings. In 2020, President Ramaphosa and President Nicolás Maduro and ministerial authorities held telephonic meetings to advance the strengthening of bilateral cooperation, and economic and social relations for the mutual benefit of the two countries and exchange views on the development agenda of the South and the establishment of an equitable global governance system.

Colombia

The Colombian economy is one of the fastest-growing economies in Latin America. This compels South Africa to look positively towards Colombia. The country has been identified as an important high-growth market for South African products. There are a number of large South African corporations operating in Colombia, INBEV, Old Mutual and Anglo Ashanti. Moreover, South Africa's Bus Rapid Transport System is based on the system operational in Medellín, Colombia.

Since 2015, there has been lack of high-level interactions between the two countries. South Africa remains committed to strengthening relations with Colombia through the convening of political consultations in the near future. Furthermore, South Africa considers Colombia as an important partner in South-South cooperation.

Cuba

Cuba is South Africa's historical and strategic partner in Latin America and the Caribbean. South Africa-Cuba relations are characterised by high-level political engagements, shared values and close bilateral and multilateral cooperation. Both countries are strong proponents for South-South cooperation and solidarity, progressive internationalism and the establishment of an equitable global governance system in international fora such as the NAM, G77 and the UN.

Currently, just under 600 South African medical students are studying in Cuba at various levels and 732 South Africans, who received their first five years of medical training in Cuba, have qualified as doctors since the inception of the Nelson Mandela-Fidel Castro Training Programme in 1997 and are rendering services to communities across South Africa.

In April 2020, a Henry Reeve Cuban Medical Brigade was deployed to South Africa at the request of the South African Government for a period of 12 months. The 217 medical practitioners were deployed throughout the country to assist with South Africa's COVID-19 response. South Africa has nominated the Cuban Medical Brigade for the Nobel Peace Prize for 2021.

South Africa and Cuba's bilateral cooperation is actively pursued through the implementation of government-to-government agreements between the two countries, covering numerous areas of common interest. The most active areas of implementation include health cooperation, human settlements technical exchange, public works technical assistance, cooperation on water-resource management and water supply, agreement on professional services in the field of basic education and the Agreement on Cooperation in ICT, and Science and Technology.

The deployment of Cuban doctors, engineers and technical experts in all the provinces of South Africa, rendering important services, is a demonstration of the strategic partnership and solidarity between South Africa and Cuba and a good example of South-South cooperation.

Dominican Republic

South Africa and the Dominican Republic enjoy cordial diplomatic relations established in May 2002. The Dominican Republic has a free-market economy and benefits from strong trade links with the Caribbean region as well as the USA. The country has high levels of disposable income and a modern banking system. The main economic drivers are construction, manufacturing and tourism. With a consumer society, the Dominican Republic provides many potential benefits for South African business and also as a source market for tourism.

South African exports to the Dominican Republic are value-added products which support the country's industrial strategy and national development imperatives of job creation and poverty reduction. South African wines and other food products as well as manufactured and finished goods such as vehicles, textiles and jewellery are potential export areas for South Africa.

Guyana

Prior to the dawn of freedom and democracy in 1994, Guyana was one of the strong supporters of South Africa's freedom Struggle. South Africa and Guyana enjoy cordial bilateral relations established on 4 November 1994. One of the largest offshore oil discoveries in Guyana recently, present possible opportunities for South African trade, investments and technical cooperation in the Guyanese oil industry.

South Africa views Guyana as an important bilateral partner and a principal member of the African Diaspora, which the AU embraced as a sixth region.

Jamaica

South Africa and Jamaica have strong historical and political ties, the latter having played an important role in supporting South Africa in the Struggle against apartheid.

The flagship bilateral cooperation project between South Africa and Jamaica is the Agreement on Scientific and Technological Cooperation, which was signed in 2012. The agreement is implemented through a Joint Committee on Science and Technology, which brings together the countries' departments of science and technology on an annual basis. The two countries have also been working together in the following areas:

- bio-economy (nutraceuticals; best practice in growing nutraceuticals plants, for example, marijuana, lemon grass, eucalyptu, commercialisation of nutraceuticals, phyto-medicines, and indigenous knowledge systems, natural products development;
- popularisation of science and technology (sharing of experiences and best practices);
- ocean science; and
- Science technology and innovation policy development

(sharing of information and best practices).

Cooperation in sport, arts and culture is an important area of mutual interest between the two countries as well South and multilateral cooperation.

Trinidad and Tobago

South Africa and Trinidad and Tobago enjoy cordial bilateral relations and the country is viewed as an important bilateral partner in the Caribbean region. The large African Diaspora in Trinidad and Tobago forms a strong link with Africa, and serves as a further catalyst for ongoing cooperation between the respective regions.

Trinidad and Tobago is one of the strongest economies in the region with a well-developed hydrocarbons sector that presents opportunities for trade, investment and technical cooperation in the oil sector.

